Groups To Grapple With Dairying's Decline In Maryland

KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent
BALTIMORE, Md. — The declining status of the dairy industry in Maryland has prompted action on several fronts in recent weeks.

State officials led by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Walker and Ray Miller, president of the Maryland Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, have appointed a task force of farmers and other industry figures to study the problems of dairy farming in Maryland. The 30-member task force, which held its first meeting on Monday in Baltimore, is expected to generate a report before the state's General Assembly reconvenes in January.

At the same time, members of Maryland Farm Bureau's dairy committee have begun discussing initiatives that can help farmers stay in business. The committee sponsored a marketing forum Monday that drew about 50 farmers to an evening meeting in Walkersville, Md.

The actions underscore concern for what has long been the second largest agricultural enterprise — behind broilers — in Maryland. As has been the case throughout the Northeast and much of the country in recent years, the number of both dairy farms and cows in Maryland has continued to shrink.

In Maryland, however, the (Turn to Page A26)

Allied Milk Producers Hold Annual Dinner

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent
JONESTOWN (Bedford Co.) — The Allied Milk Producers' Cooperative Inc., representing nine counties, held its annual dinner recently at the Masonic Temple.

The gathering of members was for a two-fold reason, according to Dorothy Naugle, dairy marketing specialist. It was to thank the Allied supporters and to share with them how the promotion dollars are spent.

To show how the cooperative targeted promotions, a number of reports and viewed colored slides were presented by Naugle.

Bill Parise, president of the Pennsylvania Special Olympics, headquartered in Rochester, was a special guest at the banquet.

ducers' Cooperative for its involvement with Special Olympics.

In addition to giving the Special Olympics its largest cash donation in history, Allied Milk Producers' Cooperative helped to raise thousands of additional dollars through a coupon booklet in conjunction with area businesses.

Finally, Parise presented a plaque to the cooperative on which was engraved words of gratitude for all that has been accomplished by the cooperative for the Special Olympics Winter Games.

The board of directors will lose long time member, Jim Harteis, Cambria County, who is retiring after 10 years.

Board president, Joel Rose, told the group that Harteis had given invaluable support to the Allied Milk Producers' Co-op during his tenure on the board with words of (Turn to Page A27)

Inventor Of Baler Dies But Contribution To Farming Lives Forever

Ivan J. Glick
Writer Friend

Edwin B. Nolt, Baler Inventor, 1910-1992,

We've lost a friend, Ed Nolt passed away last Tuesday. But his example, his Christian testimony and his work remain with us. Not many people knew him very well because he shunned publicity. He usually didn't have very much to say unless you talked Pennsylvania Dutch. A stranger would never have guessed his genius. He was associated with the New Holland Machine Company from 1940 until a few years ago but he maintained a quiet reserve even there. Not many Machine Company or Sperry people got to know him. But his invention, the automatic pickup baler, was the foundation of that company's success. For years, thousands of jobs were based on Ed Nolt's invention. Around the world, livestock farming changed as a result of his baler.

Lancaster County would have been a different place without him. But not many people know much about that, either. Ed wanted it that way. In his view, as a Christian, it would have been just plain wrong to accept fame or to have people know about his charity. Brotherhood and Christian Fellowship were more important to him. Being a stand-out would have interfered with things he believed.

Ed was born in 1910 near Vogansville. Like many Lancaster County farmers, he was a natural-born mechanic. His father had a small farm but mainly he ran a threshing rig. In the off season he operated a saw mill and crushed rock for local farmers with a portable crusher. Ed's mother was the daughter of a miller. So between mills, threshers, the saw mill and the rock crusher, young Ed grew up with mechanical things.

He was 14 when he finished the eighth grade and could quit school. He said he was sure glad to be done with that and have it over with. School didn't agree with him much. He went along threshing with his father during the harvest season before he was out of school. He bought the "Rig" from his father and became a custom thresherman on his own by the time he was 19. He opened a garage at Vogansville the same year.

Each year, by the time the threshing season was over, the equipment had to be overhauled. Young Ed decided to put a stop to that. So he went over the thresher and rebuilt it. He took off the old oil-soaked wooden block bearings and replaced them with bronze or anti-friction bearings and made a Relive history. Here, a 1939 or 1940 9-N antique Ford tractor pulls a 1948 Model 76 New Holland baler. This last of the first series baler invented by Edwin Nolt was pulled out of the museum in July 1990 and put to work on the Aaron Glick farm near Lampeter in Lancaster County. The occasion was the 40th anniversary of Nolt's baler invention and the 50th anniversary of the 9-N. Martin Denlinger Jr. drives the tractor.

Nolt passed away this week, but left behind a quiet legacy of mechanical genius from a grade school education that exceeded many doctorates. Photos supplied by author, some are by Earl Alneworth, Farm Journal.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, April 22, 1992

Trucklot buying interest ranged light to fairly good and about as expected for mid-week needs. Demand for boneless skinless breasts was good where major features were in progress, otherwise, retail demand was only fair. Trucklot volumes of line run breasts for immediate needs were all booked at steady prices; however, buyers resisted higher asking prices for next week production. Some early morning buyer inquiries for leg quarters was reported but that market was quiet by mid-morning. Demand for yellow skin wings was very good, supplies were tight, and prices trended higher.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, April 22, 1992

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged for white eggs, and unchanged to higher for brown eggs in New England. The market tone was generally steady. Demand covered the full range, and post-holiday restocking slowed in most regions. Supplies were short to adequate with light sizes and occasionally extra-large in the tightest position. Breakers in the Midwest paid higher prices for extra shell eggs, and other regions had generally unchanged breaking stock prices.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry Report

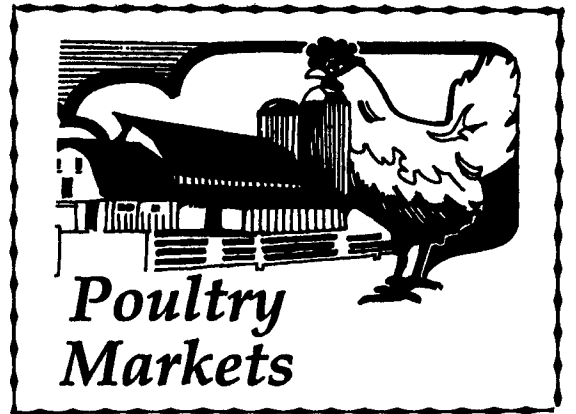

Atlanta, Ga.

Tuesday, April 21, 1992

Offerings of both classes of fowl are fully adequate to ample for processing needs. Demand is only moderate at best as only limited running time is available for next week's schedules. Undertone barely steady to weak.

APRIL 27-MAY 3, 1992

NATIONAL HONESTY DAY, APRIL 30.

NUTS IN MAY?

Here we go gathering nuts in May," sing the children, without giving a thought to the fact that there are no nuts to gather in May. The song is actually referring to gathering knots, or buds, as in the old English custom of "bringing in the May."

Early on the morning of May first, people gather branches in bud and bloom to bring indoors. In England a favorite is hawthorne, in Scotland and Wales, rowan or mountain ash. In this country, we may choose forsythia or lilac or even pussy willow to bring the spring and new life into our homes.

A cold May is kindly, and fills the barn finely.

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARWISE

Didn't get around to washing the windows last week? Try this recipe: combine 1/4 teaspoon vegetable-oil-based liquid soap, 3-4 tablespoons white vinegar and 1 pint water in a spray bottle. Shake gently to distribute ingredients evenly and use as you would any window-cleaning spray. This will put a shine on mirrors, windows, and stainless steel. If you don't have any lint-free cloths, try using crumpled old newspapers to wipe dry, they work even better than costly and wasteful paper towels.

POTATO AND WATERCRESS SOUP

4-5 potatoes, peeled and diced
4 cups cold water
1 bunch watercress
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste

Boil potatoes in water for 20 minutes or until tender. Drain, reserving water. Press potatoes through a sieve and return to pot with reserved water. Chop watercress (reserve a few sprigs for garnish), add to pot, and cook 5 minutes. Add butter and milk. Heat until warm, season to taste, and garnish with watercress. Good warm or cold. Makes 4-6 servings.

OPINION

Great Future For The American Farmer

The outlook for farmers could be quite different in a few years if all the new off-farm, nonfood uses for ag products are developed. Anything made from plastic could be made from corn, soybeans, or other crops. The technology is already at work to make this happen.

A number of advantages are obvious in this scenario. First, because of the huge markets for plastic, think of the increased farm income that would occur if farm sources were tapped instead of oil wells. In addition, since plastic made from crop products are bio-degradable, the environmental appeal is tremendous. The prospect of less waste in our landfills is appealing. And crop based products do not have many of the toxic hazards associated with oil based products.

The purchase of less oil from foreign countries would help the balance of trade. And the advanced technology that has made the American farmer and supporting agribusiness famous could be used to great advantage in the trade wars too. Japan's advantage would dissipate quickly if our great skills in production agriculture were used to produce the very products Japan thinks we can't do without.

In the future, the farmer may not only be the source of food. The farmer may also supply the source of plastics, paints, motor fuels, and pesticides. Just think of the size of these markets, and then you will see why we think there is a great future for the farmer.

I'm a subscriber of Lancaster Farming paper. I just wanted to drop a line to let you know how much I enjoy your paper. Sections A & B are more for me. I enjoy Lou Ann Good's Homestead Notes - the different recipes, Joyce Bupp, & Ida's notebook - I do enjoy even the little articles put in about different families.

When I was missed one Saturday - I almost went _____ - I mean I read your paper that day & Sunday and let's not forget Mailbox Market - we advertised twice & sold both times quickly. One item went to New Jersey. So - to let you know just how important your paper means to me - I wanted to say thanks for an excellent paper.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Manage Milk Production

One of the challenges of the dairy industry is to match milk production with seasonal demands for milk.

To accomplish this, some milk markets encourage dairy farmers to increase production in the August-to-December period. This is the time that families return from vacations and children return to school.

The amount of milk dairy farmers ship during these months becomes their production base for the following year. Any milk shipped in excess of this base is penalized with a lower, excess price.

Recently, this excess price has been about $2.30 less than the base price. This becomes a powerful incentive for dairy farmers to have cows calving throughout the year in an effort to have balanced milk production and high milk receipts.

To Grout Your Well

Bacterial contamination affects more than 50 percent of the private wells in Pennsylvania.

The quality of well water is often determined by the care taken in constructing the well. If surface water enters an improperly constructed well, it can travel down the well casing and contaminate the groundwater.

To prevent surface water from entering the casing, a mixture of cement or grout should be forced into the space between the well casing and the borehole. This process is called grouting.

The grout or cement should extend from the soil surface to bedrock.

Less than 20 percent of the residential wells in Pennsylvania are grouted. This relatively inexpensive procedure may save the cost of water treatment and ensure a clean water source.

To Follow Water Legislation

Environmental issues will be one of the major items farmers will need to follow in the 1990s. In a recently issued report, the Joint Legislative Air and Water Pollution Control and Conservation Committee called for revision of the State Water Plan for Pennsylvania.

The "Water Resources Management in Pennsylvania" report recommends the implementation of a water permitting, registration, and water use priority program for groundwater withdrawals in Pennsylvania.

The General Assembly would have to enact legislation authorizing the program. Currently, 19 of the 26 states east of the Mississippi River already have adopted some form of permitting or registration program for groundwater use.

Now is the time to become familiar with water rights and water laws. Through education and knowledge, agriculture will be able to have a very viable voice in drafting water legislation.

Agriculture is very dependent on water for its survival and must take an active role in this issue.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "It takes good people to implement good laws."

A BUTTERFLY NAMED "HOPE"

Background Scripture: I Peter 1:1-25.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 23:1-6.

Do you remember the story of Pandora's box?

Pandora, according to legend, was the bride sent by Zeus to Epimetheus. The young couple lived happily until one day Mercury brought Pandora a golden casket, telling her she should enjoy the beauty of its exterior, but never open it. In time Pandora was overcome by her curiosity and she opened the box, just a little. Out of the box surged a swarm of nasty insects that bit and stung. Pandora quickly slammed the box shut, but it was too late: the insects had escaped. Everyone in the vicinity suffered the attacks of these insects, including Epimetheus and his friends. The poison of their stings was suspicion, hatred, fear and malice. Epimetheus bitterly chided his bride and Pandora wept inconsolably. As they quarreled, however, they heard a sweet voice calling from within the casket: "Let me out. Let me soothe your pain." Fearfully, the two young lovers opened the box and out flew a radiant butterfly. As it lighted on their wounds, it relieved their pains, Pandora and Epimetheus once again began to plan a happy life together for the butterfly's name was Hope.

FRUITLESS?

There is really nothing that soothes the aches and pains of life like hope. The problem is that much of that in which we hope is not substantial or long-lasting. Very often we hope in the wrong things or even the wrong persons. If we have been disappointed in our hoping, we are likely to become cynical or untrusting. Misplaced hope can destroy us because it destroys our capacity for faith. If there is any real basis for hope, or is all hope fruitless?

I Peter says: "By his great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1:3). A "living hope," what is that? One commentator Archibald M. Hunter, says that just "as 'living waters' are those that flow from a perennial spring, as a living hope is one which no trials and tribulations can ever quench." In other words this "living hope" has a source that does not expire, play out or become depleted. It cannot let us down, for it is based Upon the same power that cracked open the tomb and raised up Jesus from the tomb.

In his book, The Kingdom of God, John Bright says that "Jeremiah could never believe that the national ruin was the end. True, he could see no cause to hope; but he never lost hope, because he never lost God." That is why our hope is a "living hope": as long as we do not lose God, we do not lose hope, for God is our hope. And the resurrection of Jesus assures us that we will not lose God even as we experience death. Easter means, not just that Jesus made it through death, but that we will, too. If death cannot defeat us — because it cannot defeat God then our hope is secure.

A LITTLE WHILE

Just to make sure we get the enduring message, the writer of Peter follows up his assurance of a "living hope" with a promise of "an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading..." (1:4). All of this must be seen in the context from which I Peter is written. The people receiving it are undergoing persecution and so the writer says, though now for a little while you may have to suffer various trials, so that the genuineness of your faith... is tested by fire..."

Our hope is set in the midst of the everpresent possibility of trials and tribulations.

House Ag Committee Chairman Investigates No Ag Funds, Vet School May Close

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Alarmed by a proposal to close Pennsylvania's only veterinary school and substandard conditions at the state-run animal health laboratory at Summerdale, Rep. Kenneth J. Cole, D-Adams, has proceeded to conduct an investigation of benefits versus expenses at the two facilities.

As chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, Cole is concerned about the possible effects of eliminating funding to the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine from the state budget. "I have met personally with officials at Penn and I fear that the absence of state funding can only result in one situation — closure," said Cole.

"I feel it is our duty to first investigate the plausibility of this statement and secondly to determine the economic impact of such a result of the commonwealth."

Majority executive directors from the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and the House Appropriations Committee were directed by Cole to conduct a comprehensive tour of the facilities at the veterinary school that are facing possible elimination.

"This is a preliminary fact finding mission that will be followed up with extensive work by all interested parties," Cole said.

"We must take responsibility to prioritize our animal health and diagnostic facilities to ensure that our agricultural interests are being met with the best technology in order to maintain our status as an industry leader."

Less than a month ago Cole and Rep. Dwight Evans, D-Phila., toured the Summerdale Animal Health Laboratory and said they found conditions there "disturbing."

The Summerdale, state-run facility is the only sentry responsible for detecting animal disease and abnormalities. Animal agriculture is in critical condition, according to Cole.

"I know the Animal Health Commission has been working diligently on this problem and I am sure they feel we must move forward to improve our animal health regulatory and diagnostic facilities," Cole said.

Cole said he plans to attend a Thursday special meeting of the the Animal Health Commission to hear recommendations from the Secretary of Agriculture on the fate of the facility.

The meeting is to be held in the state Agriculture Department building located adjacent to the state Farm Show building complex in Harrisburg.

THE ONLY POST THAT CONTROLS GRASSES AND BROADLEAVES.

A single application of PURSUIT® herbicide not only delivers the highest degree of overall weed control, it's also the only post-emergence product that combines contact and residual activity to give you superior control of more than 40 tough-to-control grasses and broadleaf weeds. Including velvetleaf, foxtails, cocklebur, pigweeds, nightshades, common ragweed, giant ragweed, sunflower, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass. Without causing soybean injury. And because of its advanced chemistry and low rates of application, PURSUIT offers a responsible choice for the environment. That's the kind of strength everyone can respect. And reason enough to try PURSUIT. See us soon.

Animal Housing Expo At Lebanon Fairgrounds

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon County) — An animal housing exposition similar in purpose and design to the annual Penn State University Ag Progress Days is scheduled for July 14 and 15, according to a multi-county agricultural engineer.

Patrick Richie, multi-county engineer said that he and Dan McFarland, also a multi-county engineer, are hosting the event.

According to Richie, he and McFarland saw a need for a housing facility exposition in the south central Pennsylvania area and with the opening of the Lebanon convention center, they now have the facility and don't have to put up with city congestion.

The exposition is to be the first of many, said Richie.

"Basically, we wanted to give farmers a show similar to Ag Progress days that was animal housing related. Since we work this area, we decided to have it down in south eastern Pennsylvania. That's also where a large percentage of our agriculture is anyway," Richie said.

The show is still in the organizing stage and commercial exhibitors are still being accepted. Those interested should call Richie at (215) 378-1327.

Most exhibitors are to set up in the new building at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, he said.

"Basically, it's going to be all leading edge, state-of-the-art buildings," he said. But he added that just about any or all animal housing designs and plans will be available through exhibitors or non-commercially connected speakers.

Richie said that the speakers, who still have to be confirmed before announcing, will be the same both days. The speakers are to be nationally recognized experts.

The emphasis of the designs will be mostly dairy, swine and poultry facilities, Richie said, although some builders will have available plans and information on housing for other species.

Modeled after Ag Progress Days, the annual PSU-sponsored August expo held at Rock Spring, near State College, the Lebanon County Animal Housing Expo is to similarly be designed for the family and feature food booths, 4-H and FFA exhibits, booths from ASCS, SCS, FmHA, conservation districts, etc.

The need for the expo is strong, Richie said, noting that the average facility in the southeast has last been updated at least 20 years ago.

"The buildings have changed a good bit and we learned a lot more about ventilation since the seventies," he said, "and we learned more about animal comfort."

Experts on financial planning and farm management are also expected to be available.

Admission is $2 to cover parking and offset the cost of renting the building. Complimentary tickets are to be available through participating exhibitors. An exhibitors list is not yet completed, but will be publicized when finished, Richie said.

Bradford County Sets Tractor Program

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Farmers who expect to hire anyone under 16 years of age to work on a farm should be aware of the child labor requirements in agriculture under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Under child labor provisions of the Act, it is unlawful for an employer to hire anyone under 16 years of age to operate a tractor of more than 20 P.T.O. horsepower or to connect or disconnect an implement or any of its parts to or from such a tractor.

Also illegal according to the regulation would be the operating or assisting to operate most tractor-powered or self-powered equipment. Some livestock, lumbering, storage, and pesticide work is classified hazardous and illegal. Youth employed by parent or guardian are exempt.

Some may question the legal importance of the training, since there haven't been any court cases in Pennsylvania. However, if a serious accident involving an uncertified youth occurs, the resulting investigations could be very uncomfortable for the employer. Fines to an employer may be

$1,000 first offense and more than $10,000 or up to six months imprisonment or both for a second offense.

Youth 14 and 15 years of age may be legally hired if they become certified through a tractor certification program. The certification indicates that the bearer has completed safety instructions and is not an operator's license.

A certification program will be available starting at 7 p.m. on May 4 at the extension office at 701 South Fourth Street, Towanda. If a youth 14 or 15 years of age plans to work on a farm this summer, or if a farmer plans to hire a person of this age, they may become certified by completing this course.

There will be four evening sessions starting at 7 p.m. on May 4, 6, 11, and 13 and a morning session starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 16 during which a driving test will be given. Youth 13 years of age will be accepted but will not receive their certification until their 14th birthday.

Contact the extension office for more details if needed (717) 265-2896.

Presenting the awards on behalf of Dekalb were Brent Hershey of Hershey Ag and Glenn Esbenschade of Esbenschade Mills. Brubaker manages Lost Creek Farm, which is operated by Hershey Ag and Esbenschade Mills. The Clawsons are independent owner-operators who produce under contract.

The Clawson's care for 300 sows and produce in excess of 6,000 pigs annually. To win the Dekalb award, the Clawsons' production records were compared to similar-sized operations (201 to 300 sows) from all over the U.S.

Lost Creek houses 1,200 sows and produces in excess of 24,000 pigs annually. The farm's production records were compared to 25 similar-sized operations, representing the production performance of 37,000 sows from all over the U.S.

All the animals on both the Lost Creek and the Clawson farms live in environmentally controlled barns under the most stringent health program utilized by the swine industry.

The Clawsons and the management team at Lost Creek won their awards by following strict management programs to maximize sow comfort and high productivity.

Agriculture Is A Class Topic

Fulltime hired man Bruce Horning holds one of the mouse catchers at the Marvin Witmer barn. Horning said a basic agricultural class would probably be beneficial for most people.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Children identifying sows as cows.

Not knowing where their food comes from.

Teachers who haven't a clue as to how milk actually gets from udder to grocery dairy section.

Those are problems which Ag in the Classroom (AIRC) program volunteers hope to correct.

In Lancaster County, the program has been consistent. Many who have graduated from Lancaster County, or other school districts, have said that they retained strong memories of their elementary school field trip to the farm.

For several days this past week, 300 additional people — fourth graders in the Warwick School District — toured agricultural businesses as part of the AIRC program.

Sponsored by the Lancaster County affiliate of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, presentations were given in the classroom with live animals and tours were given of a dairy farm and an egg processing facility.

At the 100-acre farm of Marvin Witmer, located along Clay Road on the edge of the main town of Lititz, the children and their teachers got an academic and sensory experience of the family farm production of milk.

In other words, the group saw cows, smelled cows, and heard cows.

Witmer talked about the care and feeding of cows. Others talked about planting and harvesting, field equipment and the benefits of milk as a beverage.

When Witmer introduced the children to cows, the young hands reached out to touch the large cattle. Comments about the cows drooling and uncertain glances quickly gave away the fact that many of the children had never been that close to a 1,200-pound Holstein.

Witmer talked about feeding cows and showed the children what is done during milking, such as cleaning and drying the teats, attaching the milking claw. The children also heard about ways to tell if a cow is sick.

Using a child's wagon filled with 120 empty pint-sized milk cartons, he told the children that every day a cow makes enough milk to fill those cartons.

He also explained that of the 35-cents purchase price of each pint, the farmer receives about 7 cents. The other money, he said, goes to process the milk, transport it, package it, market it, and for advertisement.

In the hay loft and top storage room of the old bank barn, Lancaster County Dairy Princess Robyn Groff presented a small class on dairy products and its dietary benefits.

She showed them a comparison of milk requirements for a young boy, a teenaged girl, and an older man. She said that the teenaged girl needed the most milk, the man needed not as much and that the boy needed milk also, but not as much as the girl.

Groff also used a tic-tac-toe game structure as the basis for a quiz, pitting one half of the class against the other, with those answering correctly getting their choice of squares.

Pints of Graybill's milk were provided for the children to drink.

Also, the children were given a talk about farm equipment by Rick Poutz, who used tractors and equipment supplied by Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc., of Lititz, and an old, single-blade plough to show the changes in equipment and the complexity and risk with which farmers must cope in order to stay competitive in producing milk.

Despite the occasional fingers-pinch-the-nostrils and grimacing at the first close-up exposure to "country air," the warm, partly sunny field trip appeared enjoyable for the youth as a break from the four walls of the classroom.

And the youth also proved they learned by correctly answering questions afterward.

But those who helped support

Almost like a Norman Rockwell scene, these fourth graders follow behind Marvin Witmer as he takes them to see his milking herd.

the event were vocal in expressing a hope that the education of the masses as to what is agriculture and its importance to their survival and future would not rest solely on one fourth-grade field trip.

Bruce Horning, 21, a fulltime laborer for Witmer for 5½ years, said he thought that more should be done within the school curriculum.

"I'd make them take a class and teach basic agriculture," Horning said.

His own road of employment and independence was made out of preference and because of the advantage of a family-influence agricultural education, he said. Horning didn't grow up on a farm, but his grandfather Daniel Souder had a dairy farm in Akron until 1980. An uncle in Cumberland County also farms.

Through the family heritage, Bruce said he grew up learning about farming and wanting to practice it. "It just sort of runs in the family," he said.

Bruce has three brothers, all of whom are also employed in farming.

Two of Bruce's brothers rent farms and own their own herds — Nevin Horning owns a farm in the rural Lititz area and has a herd of Holsteins which has been producing an average 22,000 pounds of milk, per-cow, per lactation; Stanley Horning rents a farm in Lebanon County.

Another brother, Daniel Horning, works for Hammer Creek Holsteins & Exotics, closer to the Lancaster-Lebanon county line.

In high school Bruce was a member of FFA and his projects included raising veal calves and working at the Witmer farm.

He helps Marvin milk, feed and care for the 55 to 60 registered Holsteins in a 60-tie stall barn, the dry cows and replacements, finish fields, plant, care for and harvest alfalfa, corn, etc.

Like most farm laborer positions, Horning said he won't get rich with the pay, but his able to save money and work at something he enjoys with the feeling that it can lead to something more — his own operation.

"As long as I'm single, I can do it (work as a laborer). I'd like to own a farm sometime, but's expensive. I'm going to stay here awhile yet," he said.

"I thought about truck driving," he said, drifting a little. "I like manual labor. I couldn't handle sitting in an office."

He said working as a farm laborer before starting to farm independently is a good system.

"It works best, working for somebody and buying a couple of cows at a time. And it helps with getting experience," the FFA Keystone Farmer degree recipient said. "As my Ag teacher said, 'The more you put into it, the more you get out of it.'"

"Being in an agriculture class helps too," he added.

Horning said programs such as the one which occurred at the Witmer farm, were helpful in teaching people basic living knowledge.

"They had good questions," Horning said. "It's good for them."

Also strong on the issue is Roy Brubaker, AITC coordinator for Warwick School District.

Brubaker took over coordination of the program at Warwick, which is in its seventh year, several years ago.

In a letter to Jane Eshelman, county coordinator for AITC, Brubaker wrote that those in the Warwick district "... appreciate the assistance of Dale Gerber, Warwick VoAg teacher and the (school) VoAg Department, especially in the area of school relationships and FFA presentations.

On Wednesday, Gerber assistant, Lisa Acampora, who had worked with AITC elsewhere prior to being hired at Warwick, was the VoAg coordinator. She had some of her students also help with the youth and answer questions, or explain things to puzzled faces.

Brubaker was at the Witmer farm to help make sure everything ran smoothly.

He has a file on AITC and newspaper clippings of reported efforts by Ag teachers to get the state Board of Education to include agricultural literacy in the mandatory curriculum for a variety of reasons, but essentially because they are of the opinion that it is ridiculous for anyone to grow up not knowing what they are eating and where it comes from.

Acampora said the program is to "... familiarize kids with the farming industry. Kids don't know."

She said that efforts to integrate agriculture into the daily classroom should be done.

Bob Laufer, president of the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association (PVATA), has been lobbying hard on his own time to try to educate the non-agricultural state Board of Education as to the importance of agriculture to the state and to its people.

The fact that agriculture is the No. 1 industry in the state is second to the desire to teach educate people about a basic of life, for two major reasons.

One reason is because a knowledge of agriculture and man's dependence on it for social and cultural stability can help people understand where they fit in and help develop perspectives of the world based on reality.

The common language is helping people get "down to earth." Also, knowing how to culture life adds to the enjoyment of living.

"It's sad," Acampora said. "People ask me if farmers still

Fifteen Farms Approved For Preservation

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved easement purchases for 15 farms in nine counties to protect 2,724 acres of prime farmland from development.

For the first time, easements were purchased in Wayne, Mercer, and Union Counties. A total of 17,243 acres in 16 counties have been preserved in the program's first three years.

"We're delighted that counties in the northern half of the Commonwealth have started to take advantage of the program," said State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff, who serves as board chairman. "We also welcome Columbia and Delaware Counties, whose land preservation plans the board also approved."

The board also reallocated $3.18 million in program funds left over from unused 1989 and 1990 state match funds. The funds will be allocated among 12 counties for use in 1992.

The board approved farm preservation easement purchases in Adams, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster, Mercer, Montgomery, Union, Wayne, and York counties.

- Adams — Dorothy Bowers and Gloria Burr, Mount Joy Township, 89 acres, $155,141.
- Bucks — Howard and Bertha

- Lewis, Tinicum Township, 101 acres, $431,600.

- Chester — Kenneth and Mildred Sellers, East Marlborough Township, 151 acres, $1,100,457.

- Lancaster — David and Edna Garber, East Donegal Township, 74 acres, $139,000.

- Lancaster — Noah Kreider and Sons, East Donegal Township, 177 acres, $272,200.

- Mercer — Cindy and John Angermeier Jr., Jefferson Township, 102 acres, $51,055.

- Montgomery — Franklin and Elizabeth Schlegel, Douglass Township, 70 acres, $340,000.

- Montgomery — Howard and Barbara Moser, Douglass Township, 148 acres, $600,000.

- Montgomery — Clarence and Willo Standhardt, Douglass Township, 95 acres, $392,500.

- Union — James, Naomi, Noah, and Hilda Brubaker, Buffalo Township, 340 acres, $271,680.

- Union — Alice Reaser, Gregg Township, 85.5 acres, $93,195.

- Union — Carl and Clair Brown, East Buffalo Township, 241 acres, $216,945.

- Wayne — Louis and Darlene Welch, Scott Township, 212 acres, $254,532.

- Wayne — Karl and Wanda Eisenhauer, Paupack, Salem, and Lake Townships, 228 acres, $455,400.

- York — Gary and Linda Kurtz, Lower Chanceford Township, 208 acres, $266,240.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 18

GOOD WEEK FOR FIELDWORK: Above-average temperatures prevailed across the state, allowing five for fieldwork. Activities included hauling manure, spreading fertilizer, maintaining machinery, spring plowing, planting, and caring for livestock.

SOIL MOISTURE: According to our respondents, topsoil moisture was rated short by 22 percent of our respondents, adequate by 78 percent, and surplus by none of our reporters. Twenty-four percent of our respondents in the northern region rated soil moisture as short and 76 percent rated it adequate. In the central region, 16 percent of our reporters rated soil moisture as short and 84 percent rated it adequate. In the southern region, 32 percent of the respondents rated top soil as short in moisture and 68 percent judged it to be adequate.

PLOWING: Across the commonwealth, spring plowing was 40 percent completed, 6 percentage points behind last year's 46 percent. The five-year average for this date was 40 percent. Spring plowing completion was 21, 56, and 38 percent for the northern, central, and southern regions, respectively.

OATS: By week's end, oat planting across the state was 35 percent complete. That was 11 percentage points below last year's 46 percent and 8 points below the five-year average of 43 percent. Reporters in the northern region reported 12 percent complete, central region reporters indicated 44 percent, and the southern region reporters indicated 56 percent of the oats planted.

TOBACCO: By week's end, 75 percent of Pennsylvania's tobacco beds were planted. Last year at this time, 62 percent was planted, and the five-year average was 70 percent.

POTATOES: Twelve percent of the potato acreage was planted according to our indications. This is 12 percentage points behind last year's 24 percent and 10 percentage points off the five-year average of 22 percent.

BARLEY AND WHEAT: By week's end, barley was 98 percent in the preboot stage and 2 percent in the boot stage. At this time last year, 97 percent was in the preboot stage and 3 percent in the boot stage. The five-year average is the same as current year's conditions. Wheat was 99 percent in the preboot and 1 percent in the boot, same as the previous year's progress as this time and the five-year average. The wheat crop across the state was rated 9 percent excellent, 59 percent good, 23 percent fair, 7 percent poor, and 2 percent very poor.

At this time last year, apples were 73 percent in the prepink, 23 percent in the pink stage, and 4 percent full bloom or past. The five-year averages for apples are 85 percent prepink, 14 percent pink, and 1 percent full bloom or past.

HAY AND PASTURE: Thirty-six percent of the reporters rate alfalfa hay stands as good, 55 percent rated alfalfa stands as fair, and 9 percent poor. Timothy-clover stands were rated good by 21 percent of our reporters, 67 percent rated it as fair, and 12 percent rated it poor. The quality of feed being obtained from pastures was rated good by 14 percent of our reporters, fair by 40 percent, poor by 21 percent, and very poor by 25 percent.

Also, Acampora said a basic agricultural education is needed for the sake of bringing the larger human community together in understanding.

"Agriculture is blamed for so many things these days, people should have an understanding of it," she said.

Brubaker added that if people knew how much has changed relatively recently, they might marvel at some of the changes and appreciate the things around them.

"In the span of two lifetimes, we have come to where we are from doing things as they did in King Solomon's day."

machine that would hold up. It was a sample of the way he would think and work all his life.

Ed threshed every summer until the A-C All-Crop combine came along in 1936. The idea appealed to him so he sold the thresher and went for a combine. That turned out to be a hasty decision because there was no good way to save the straw. And in Lancaster County, unlike Kansas, farmers need all their straw. They even need the chaff. Some farmers tried to load the combined straw with a hay loader. That was a real bust because, dumb stuff was too slippery. It would just "rutch" off the wagon. It was hard to get a decent load of straw all the way to the barn. It was obvious the straw had to be baled.

But there was no satisfactory baler available then. The long story of the invention of Ed Nolt's baler must be told separately. But it's all history now. Ed cobbled a machine together. That first baler was good enough to show what was really needed. He and Art Young made a deal to build balers at Kinzers. It was there that the young fellows working for Reformed Mennonite Bishop J. Henry Fisher found him when they were in the process of taking over Abe Zimmerman's old New Holland Machine Company.

Ed Nolt invented the baler in the 1930's and built the first model in his machine shop at home.

didn't have the money to buy Ed's invention -- it wouldn't have taken very much at the time -- so they made a deal on a royalty basis. Nobody imagined they would ever build more than a few hundred a year. Instead, Bishop Fisher made a deal to sell the company to Sperry Rand in 1947 and Sperry put the money into expansion to let it take off. Balers were built by the thousands, not hundreds, but the per-machine royalty for Ed was in the contract. Ed didn't need or want the money. He lived very modestly. In addition to mechanical things, his parents taught him to be humble and the importance of Christian Stewardship. The money he didn't need went to Lancaster County hospitals and schools.

He was practical in his giving, too. When his sister told him of the need for a nursing home he said, "Yes well, I'll pay the half." That's how the Fairmont Nursing home came into existence. He could have paid for all of it but he figured the management would be more careful and responsible if they shouldered half the burden. He realized it's easy to be extravagant if you're spending other people's money and he wanted to avoid that.

Ed gave up balers in his last years. There was an exception. One day in July, 1990, Ed and a few of his friends took an antique baler out to a wheat field in West Lampeter Township to bale straw. It was a 1948 Model 76 baler, the last of the series that looked like Ed's first 1940 New Holland balers. They hitched it to a 50 year-old 1940 9-N Ford tractor and headed down the windrow.

At first the knotters didn't work. Ed said they would. It would just take a while. He was right. After some fussing, the baler settled down and performed perfectly.

Then Ed explained why today's baler knotters work better. Until

When the antique baler was pulled out to the field from the New Holland museum, the belts were missing and the knotters didn't work. But the belts were special ordered and fitted and with a little help from Ed as shown in the photo, knotters settled down and performed perfectly too.

Ed Nolt starts the "goose neck" plunger working on an early model of the baler he invented more than 40 years ago.

Nolt, at front of baler, starts the machine for spectators. The seat at the knoter was standard equipment on the first balers because when the baler missed a tie, someone, usually a boy or girl, would wave yell to the tractor driver to stop to fix the problem. By 1949, the knotters had been improved and to the point where they were reliable and the seat disappeared from future models.

1948 the knotters came from IH and were based on the old Deering binder knoter design. Most of the time the machine worked but sometimes a knot would "hang up" on the knoter and would have to be pulled off. That was a job for a kid who rode along on a seat on the side of the baler. Pulling on the strings tightened the knots, too. Farm boys didn't mind riding the baler, even in the hot sun, because it was a lot easier than loading hay with a hay loader. And when the baler missed a tie the kid would wave his arms and yell for the tractor driver to stop to fix the problem. Sometimes the operator would pour some oil down into the center of a ball of twine to help the twine flow through the needles and knotters easier. But from Ed's viewpoint, it wasn't nearly good enough.

"We improved the knotters," Ed explained, "by making the bill hooks bigger to give them a better bite on the twine. That made it easier for the bill hooks to get a good grip on both strings. Then we modified the twine disks to increase the length of the 'tails' beyond the knot to reduce the chance the knots would come untied before they came out of the bale chamber."

The improved knotters went into production on the new Model 77 baler in 1949. They were reliable, so the seat on the side of the baler went the way of the automobile running board. Both disappeared in 1948.

Our friend Ed is gone now, too. But his work lives after him. We cherish his memory.

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.)—The Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) has named Louis Sallie as the new Administrative Secretary of PFA.

Sallie, 45, will begin his duties at PFA's top administrator on May 1st. He succeeds Richard Newpher who has been named Executive Director of American Farm Bureau's Washington D.C. Office.

PFA is a voluntary, statewide farm organization which represents 23,049 families in 54 county associations. It is part of the nation's largest farm organization, the 3.9-million member American Farm Bureau Federation.

PFA president Keith Eckel said Sallie is an "excellent choice to take over management responsibilities of PFA. He has a lot of experience with Farm Bureau, is very capable, and relates well to farmers."

Sallie has been a Northeast

Regional Field Service Director for American Farm Bureau since Sept. 1, 1984. In that capacity he has represented the national organization, working with state farm bureaus in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, West Virginia and Pennsylvania to carry out the programs of American Farm Bureau and its affiliates.

A native of New York state, Sallie received a bachelor's degree in social sciences from Bluefield State Teachers College in Bluefield, W. Va.

Sallie resides in Carlisle, PA with his wife, Susan, and their three children.

effects of a continuing cost-price squeeze and other factors (such as last year's drought) have resulted in dramatically lower milk production compared to year-ago levels.

The state's estimated total production in February 1992, for instance, declined about four percent from the February 1991 total once the figures were adjusted for the leap year's extra day, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service office in Annapolis.

Dairy farmers are talking about their neighbors going out of business and about farm milk prices that, although higher than last year's long-time lows, remain below the levels set in the early and mid-1980s. Cooperative officials and processors also are concerned about dwindling local supplies and competition from other states in the region.

Officials who have been active in both groups say that one tangible item that could emerge from the discussions is some sort of state pricing entity similar to the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board or the Virginia State Milk Commission.

Most dairy farmers in Maryland currently benefit from the over-order pricing efforts of the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency (MACMMA), which represents the three major milk cooperatives in the state. MACMMA extends the premium set by the Pennsylvania marketing board throughout the Federal Order 4 market, which includes most of Maryland. But this system has some unstable elements and could benefit from a state pricing structure in Maryland, cooperative officials note.

"We're looking for a mechanism that will provide stability to the industry," said Bob Vaughn, general manager of Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, one of the three major cooperatives.

Boyd Cook, Vaughn's counterpart at the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc., said such an entity could benefit farmers, processors, and consumers.

Aside from organizational matters, the initial meeting of the task force focused in general terms on several concerns, according to Dr. Archibald Park, an assistant state secretary of agriculture. Park and Dr. Craig Oliver, the head of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, are serving as co-chairman of the task force.

The concerns include the loss of farmland to development, the burden of taxation, particularly inheritance taxes, as well as the price of milk, Park said.

The members agreed to reconvene June 17, Park said. They also are likely to break into smaller groups or subcommittees to address specific issues or to examine a number of issues from a particular geographic perspective. Although a formal timetable has not been adopted as yet, the members did agree to try to meet state officials' request to have a final report within six months.

"That's pretty tight, but we'll do our best," Park said.

The marketing forum — the state Farm Bureau's initial effort in this regard — didn't produce any new answers for improving milk prices. Four speakers involved with dairy policy at the national level all agreed that there was virtually no chance of any new programs coming out of Washington this year.

"It's very easy to say we need higher dairy prices," said John Keeling, a lobbyist for the American Farm Bureau Federation. "But it is very difficult to work through the policy obstructions and to work through the budget obstruction-

... and find something that will help dairy farmers and is politically do-able."

Their comments emphasized the need for the industry to act on its own at either the national level — as in a self-help program being developed by the National Milk Producers Federation — or through regional or state initiatives.

guidance and direction. With that, he presented Harteis with a desk pen set.

Rose spoke about the financial report of the Allied Milk Producers' Cooperative Inc. and the tremendous promotional thrust of the organization.

He said that radio ads exceeded $61,000. These included various ice cream promotions — "13 Sundays of Summer," 520 ice cream certificates on half gallons, and office ice cream sundae parties. In all, 10 radio stations were used in the promotions.

Billboard and busboard advertising was the next largest expense at more than $55,000. Four 60-poster campaigns were done with Penn Advertising and Johnstown Poster Co.

In the members' booklet prepared by Naugle, the list of expenditures was itemized to include television, mall promotions, cash gifts to dairy princesses, print media, education and research, administration, insurance, equipment, and so forth.

Although six dairy princesses were expected to attend the banquet, weather conditions hindered travel and so just three of them managed to attend: Vicki Stahl, representing Somerset County; Milly Sinan, Indiana County; and Carissa Idle, Cambria County.

Each received $200 for having completed 80 percent of her first level incentive award requirements.

Shannen Lafferty from Bedford Co. and Janice Hamilton from Blair Co., though absent from the affair, also qualified and received the cash incentive award.

Those princesses present entertained with the skits which helped to earn them their title.

The dinner booklet also contained a hilarious assortment of games for the politician, guaranteed to measure the depth of his regard for the farmer.

Names of the games were Supporting The Cow, Fixing The Unloader, Corraling The Cows, and Facing The Cows.

It was noted that while the "cow-milking" events boast great popularity, the mentioned games could serve as a greater eye-opener for political hopefuls.

Naugle said she was impressed with the service and food at the Masonic Temple. "They serve with such elegance," she said.

She said she was noting the linen tablecloth and napkins. "I don't know that I've ever heard anybody comment about getting too much," she said of the ham loaf/scalloped potato dinner, "but I did (get too much to eat)."

Members of the Allied Milk Producers' Cooperative board of directors are: Joel M. Rose, president, Indiana County; Fred Shankle, vice-president, Bedford County; Lowell Friedline, secretary, Somerset County; Janice Lidwell, treasurer, Cambria County; and Robert Beatty, Indiana County, and Marvin Thomas, Somerset County.

Naugle, the dairy marketing specialist, does the administration and implementation of Allied's promotional schemes.

You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement.

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic ... there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration.

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced.

Breeding For Solids-Not-Fat

LARRY SPECHT
Penn State University
Dairy Specialist

Some Pennsylvania dairy producers are now being paid for both the solids-not-fat (SNF) and milk-fat components in their milk. This primarily affects dairy herds in the southeastern and south central areas of the state. Herd owners are now asking if they should incorporate selection for non-fat solids in their breeding program.

Non-fat solids are made up of the protein, lactose and mineral content of milk. Protein and lactose values can be determined by the use of standard infra-red equipment used by most present-day testing labs. However, most commercial laboratories do not test individual farm samples for lactose. The ash (mineral) content is usually estimated at 0.7 percent since the normal range is from 0.5 to 0.9 percent for most cows milk.

One problem that arises in selecting for SNF is that most DHIA labs do not measure, and thus cannot report, SNF values for individual cows and herds. Consequently, sire and cow evaluations produced by the USDA Animal Improvement Programs Lab (AIPL) twice a year do not have SNF values. At one time, USDA animal evaluation programs did make available either solids-not-fat or protein values. By 1987 however, the number of cows with SNF values had fallen to less than 10 percent of the cows on test and SNF evaluations were discontinued.

While we cannot select for SNF directly, there is an economic index calculated by USDA-AIPL that will work very well. This is the Predicted Transmitting Ability for Milk, Fat and Protein Dollars. It is abbreviated to: PTA M,F,P$. This value comes very close to being a "perfect" index for ranking sires and cows on SNF values. Fortunately, a new development in milk pricing can be accommodated by a procedure that is already in place.

One other important point to remember is that the plan in effect in Order 4 pays for pounds of components produced rather than on a base price plus differentials for the percentages of a component(s) in the milk. Sire choices need to be based on the PTAs for pounds of protein and/or other components instead of on their PTA milkfat or protein percentages.

Milk, Fat, and Protein Dollars (M,F,P$) will work very well as the major criteria for decisions on which sires to use and which cows to breed to become the mothers of the next generation.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Manmade Chemicals Not To Blame For Causing Cancer

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The popular notion that environmental pollution from man-made chemicals has contributed to rising cancer rates is largely a myth, says an international leader in cancer research.

In fact, says Dr. Bruce N. Ames, people are routinely exposed to much higher concentrations of naturally occurring carcinogenic chemicals and suffer few ill effects, thanks to the body's natural defenses.

Ames, professor of biochemistry and molecular biology at the University of California, Berkeley, will deliver two lectures during the second annual Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Distinguished Lecture Series, April 27-28.

The first lecture, to be held April 27 at 8 p.m. in the Keller Conference Center auditorium, is titled "Understanding the Causes of Aging and Cancer." Ames will discuss "Oxidants, Antioxidants and Degenerative Diseases" on April 28 at 1:30 p.m. in 101 Agricultural Sciences and Industries Building. Both lectures are free and open to the public.

Ames may be best known for his mutagenicity test, which is used by more than 3,000 laboratories and all major drug and chemical companies to identify carcinogenic chemicals before they are introduced in commerce. He is critical of standard lab animal cancer tests in which the animals are exposed to extremely high doses of a chemical.

"These standard tests are conducted at near-toxic doses," he says, "and evidence is accumulating that it may be the high dose, rather than the chemical itself, that's the risk factor for cancer."

All chemicals are toxic at some dose."

He says his research has helped him to dispel several other misconceptions about the causes and risks of cancer. One misconception is that cancer rates are soaring. Although the number of cancer cases is rising, Ames blames that on an aging population.

"As life expectancy increases, cancer rates also increase," he says. "But the age-adjusted death rate in the U.S. for all cancers combined, excluding lung cancer from smoking, has been steady or decreasing since 1950." He says although external factors such as smoking or diet can influence cancer rates, cancer is fundamentally a degenerative disease of old age.

Another misconception Ames seeks to refute is that synthetic chemicals are more toxic than natural chemicals. "When tested in both rats and mice, the proportion of natural chemicals that cause cancer is the same as for synthetic chemicals — roughly half."

Ames contends that the concern over synthetic pesticides and the residues they may leave in foods is misplaced. He says the natural chemicals produced by plants to repel pests are just as likely to be carcinogenic as man-made pesticides. But natural chemicals account for more than 99 percent of the chemicals we ingest. He says we ingest more carcinogenic chemicals in a cup of coffee than we are likely to get from synthetic pesticides in a year.

"Eating fruits and vegetables is thought to be one way to reduce your risk of cancer and heart disease," Ames says. "And plants need chemical defenses, either natural or synthetic, to ward off attack from pests."

"Synthetic pesticides have greatly reduced the price of plant foods, making them widely available to consumers. If you eliminate synthetic pesticides because of a tiny hypothetical risk, you will make fruits and vegetables more expensive. Therefore, people will eat less of them, and cancer rates are likely to rise, not fall."

Lancaster Trust Begins Service

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Farmland Trust, the local non-profit farmland preservation organization will begin providing educational services to the community with the commencement of Farmland Preservation Week, June 8 - June 14. The Trust has planned a series of events and promotions, including a county-wide essay contest and an arts/antiques auction, to celebrate farmland preservation efforts in Lancaster County.

Alan Musselman, Executive Director of the Trust, expressed his interest in beginning this program, "Over the past four years, the Lancaster Farmland Trust has accomplished a great deal in farmland preservation, but people still have a lot of questions about how land preservation actually works. We hope over the next few months to meet with various individuals and groups and answer their questions."

Both Mr. Musselman and Karen Weiss, Director of Land Preservation, will be initiating the educational program. They will be available to speak about different aspects of farmland preservation with farmers, clubs, students and other interested groups.

The Lancaster Farmland Trust is a non-profit, member supported organization dedicated to the preservation of Lancaster County's farmland and heritage. The Trust is located at 128 East Marion Street, Lancaster.

Lancaster Native Named Director Of Veterinary Center In California

DAVIS, CA — Dr. Leon Weaver, a nationally recognized authority in dairy production medicine, was recently named director of the University of California, Davis, School of Veterinary Medicine's Veterinary Medicine Teaching and Research Center (VMTRC) located in Tulare, Calif. Dr. Weaver grew up in Lancaster County.

A member of the faculty since 1983, Weaver is credited with coining the phrase "production medicine" to more adequately describe the modern veterinary concept integrating care for individual animals, herd health programs and production economics at the herd level.

According to Frederick Murphy, dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine, Weaver's approach directly applies principles of epidemiology, nutrition, economics and information management to herd health and productivity.

"Dr. Weaver's concept of a dairy herd health program is now fully operational at the VMTRC and is the model for similar programs that are being planned at other veterinary schools and colleges," said Murphy. "We are fortunate to have someone of Dr. Weaver's abilities directing the program. His clarity of vision concerning the future direction of dairy herd production medicine and its growing complexities is

The VMTRC is located in Tulare County, the center of California's highly productive dairy in-dust, and currently holds a cooperative agreement with 12 core herds which form the basis of a 10,000 cow practice. These herds are used in a large-scale teaching program for veterinary clinical education on both the pre- and post-D.V.M. levels. The success of the core herd project is largely due to Weaver's efforts. The core herd concept was also pivotal to the establishment of a six-school Food Animal/Production Medicine Consortium of which UC Davis is a part. Within the consortium, the VMTRC specializes in clinical and field instructional programs that cover the management of large, high-yield dairies. Other members of the consortium offer different species-specific courses, which allow veterinary students to take advantage of each school's strengths without transferring credits or paying additional fees.

Weaver received his V.M.D. at the University of Pennsylvania in 1971 and served an internship in large animal medicine at Cornell University. He spent several years as a highly successful and respected private dairy practitioner before joining the faculty at UC Davis. He is a diplomate in the American College of Theriogenology and is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, the California Veterinary Medical Association and the Academy of Dairy Veterinary Consultants. In addition, he is a member of the American Association of Bovine Practitioners, which awarded him the "Excellence in Preventive Veterinary Medicine" award in 1984.

In addition to his duties as director of the VMTRC, Weaver also serves as chief of service for the school's Dairy Production Medicine clinical training program.

Dr. Weaver and his wife, Nancy Stoltzfus Weaver, reside in Visalia, Calif. They are the parents of two sons.

Camping Association Has Directory

NEW TRIPOLI (Lehigh Co.) — The Pennsylvania Campground Owners Association (PCOA) has released the 1992 Pennsylvania Campground Directory for distribution.

PCOA is an association of private campground owners dedicated to the advancement of family camping. The group is an affiliate of the National Campground Owners Association, a 3,000-member organization in more than 40 states in the United States.

The annual PCOA directory divides the state into six regions with maps, color coding, and detailed facility listings for PCOA member campgrounds within each region.

PCOA officers and directors are listed in the directory with their campground names. Each of the 170 members of the association are listed, with the name, mailing address and phone numbers.

Access directions, number of sites and a listing of facilities available are also listed.

For copies of the directory, send $2 postage and handling to the Pennsylvania Campground Owners Association, Beverly Snyder, P.O. Box 5, New Tripoli, 18066.

Fair Season Dates Announced

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff recently invited people from all parts of the state to attend at least one of the record number of county fairs that will be held during 1992.

"Since 1820, when the Pennsylvania Legislature first encouraged the formation of country agricultural societies and regularly scheduled shows, county fairs have proudly promoted the accomplishments of our farm community," Wolff said.

"We hope you will plan to visit many of the fairs throughout Pennsylvania this year to learn more about the people who make agriculture our premiere industry," Wolff added. "You're bound to have a delightful experience."

As an educational forum, fairs permit farmers to keep abreast of advancements in agriculture so they can plan for the future.

As a marketing forum, the shows give farmers opportunities to compare equipment, services and supplies, while providing agribusinesses with opportunities to develop new markets.

As a competitive forum, fairs give our rural families a great place to showcase their products and earn the prestige and satisfaction that a blue ribbon brings.

And as a social forum, fairs bring together friends and neighbors to enjoy each others company and conversation. With the addition of the new Philadelphia County Fair, May 29-June 7 in Fairmount Park, Pennsylvania will have 115 fairs during 1992. Last year more than 7 million people visited agricultural fairs in the Keystone State.

Bankers Address Farm Issues

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A modest credit crunch could slow any 1992 expansion plans for farmers in southcentral and southeastern Pennsylvania, but lenders in the region remain committed to agriculture, a panel of bankers told the April meeting of the Agricultural Issues Forum. The meeting was held Thursday, at Kreider Farms Family Restaurant in Manheim.

About 75 farmers and agribusinessmen attended the meeting. The four-banker panel included Rodger Rohrer of Hamilton Bank, Robert Zook of Meridian Bank, Jay Rush of York Farm Credit and George Lewis of Farmers First. Donald Eby, an ag lender with Farmers First, moderated the panel. The audience consisted of Ag Issues Forum members, a group of farmers and agribusiness leaders who meet monthly to discuss issues facing Pennsylvania's farm community.

One of the toughest current farm issues is a lousy economy, Meridian's Robert Zook told the gathering. Egg producers have been hit particularly hard by rising production costs and a declining egg price. Zook compared egg prices of 91.4 cents in the first quarter of 1990 with today's 66.7 cents and noted that it costs farmers 74 to 77 cents to produce a dozen eggs. Zook said he expects the price to exceed the cost of production by the end of the year.

Hamilton's Rodger Rohrer said milk prices, which used to be very stable, are now much more subject to market influence, and that they can go up or down as much as $2 or $3 per hundredweight (a little over 12 gallons) in any given year. Recent years have been really tough on dairymen, Rohrer said, but he feels stronger prices this year should be a boost to farmers.

George Lewis, of Farmers First, told the group he saw stable or declining numbers for beef producers in the region. It's a different story for pork, though. Lewis said the local pork industry has expanded rapidly in recent years, with hogs following a trail blazed over the last two decades by the broiler industry. Like broiler growers, many hog farmers now produce under contract to large operators, and more and more hogs are being grown in climate controlled facilities that reduce stress on the animals and increase their feed efficiency.

Turkeys are playing a much bigger role these days in the lending mix at York Farm Credit, according to Jay Rush. In the last five years, the bank's loans to turkey producers have grown from $1 million to $5 million. Turkey consumption in the U.S. had been growing at an annual rate of 10 percent but is projected to slow to 4 percent in 1992, said Rush. This would put some downward pressure on prices. Per capita consumption is expected to actually decline a bit, from 19.1 pounds annually to 19.0 pounds.

Closing out the hour-long meeting, all the bankers agreed that their institutions remained committed to agriculture, and that existing customers with strong balance sheets would have first shot at loans for new and expanded enterprises. There also seemed to be agreement that ag prices in the years ahead are going to be more cyclical, and that the farmers most likely to thrive in a more competitive environment are going to be the ones with the strongest management skills.

Hyatt Writes Wins State

SALISBURY (Somerset Co.) — A member of the Berlin-Brothersvalley FFA Chapter has become the Pennsylvania state winner in a writing contest held by FFA New Horizons magazine.

Recently named the winner was Chad Hyatt, 17, a junior at Berlin-Brothersvalley High School and the son of William and Joann Casebeer. His FFA advisor is Doyle Paul.

Hyatt's 100-word essay advised using contour plowing, strip-cropping and water conservation. Using vegetation, planting lots of trees and grass, he wrote, will slow runoff from rain, control the force of wind and prevent soil erosion.

The March 1992 DHI information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by herd name, county association, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5 percent Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

Olympic Horse Trial To Be Held In Chester County

DEVON (Chester Co.) — Every top show jumping rider in the country will be competing at the Devon Horse Show in May, striving to make the four-man team that will compete in this summer's Olympic Games.

Devon is to be one of two selection sites at which candidates for the Olympic team must compete in designated classes. The team, which will be chosen on objective criteria, will be named after the final trial at the U.S. Equestrian Team's headquarters in Gladstone, N.J., on June 20.

The ticket office is open for this year's Devon Horse Show and Country Fair, which will be held May 22 - 30.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the show grounds. For ticket information call (215) 688-2554, Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There's a saving for purchasing general admission tickets in advance, and reserved seating is also available.

Along with all the top national show jumpers, champion hunters, hackneys, harness ponies and fine harness horses, roadsters, three- and five-gaited saddle horses and four-in-hand teams will also be competing in the Dixon Oval and the Gold Ring.

Towering over the show grounds is the Ferris Wheel, a main attraction at the Country Fair, which also boasts a merry-go-round and other rides for children of all ages plus a number of games and a wide variety of shops and boutiques.

Featured in these boutiques are designer clothes, skirts, blouses and dresses with a horsey motif, hand bags and totes, fine gold and silver jewelry as well as costume jewelry, paintings and sculpture, garden statuary and fine leather goods.

There are a number of tack shops on the grounds, stocked with boots and bristles, bridles and saddles and handsome gifts. All kinds of attractive souvenirs are also available.

The popular Devon tea shop will be back, offering iced tea and dainty sandwiches. Of course, the famous Devon fudge will again be available.

The Country Fair offers a vast selection of delicious food, ranging from hot dogs, hamburgers and pita sandwiches to the full-course, gourmet dinners available in the cafeteria.

Greg Best of Annandale, N.J., is expected to compete on Budweiser Gem Twist at Devon. The big grey gelding, universally acclaimed as one of the greatest show jumpers in the world, was named the Best Horse at the 1990 World Championships held in Stockholm, Sweden.

Best and Budweiser Gem Twist were the individual silver medalists at the 1988 Seoul Olympics and were members of the silver medal-winning team.

Joe Fargis of Southampton, N.Y., one of this nation's most accomplished riders, is recovering from a broken leg suffered in a fall at a horse show in Palm Beach, Fla., in February.

Fargis, who is being treated by a doctor who specializes in sports medicine, is hopeful that he will be in shape to compete at Devon.

He is to be riding Mill Pearl, the mare he rode to a team silver medal in the 1988 Seoul Olympics. Fargis also was a member of the gold medal-winning team at the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics, where he won the individual gold.

Anne Kurainski of Flemington, N.J., on Starman, as well as Lisa Jacquin of Collegeville, Pa., and For The Moment, both silver medal-winning teammates of Best and Fargis in Seoul, Korea, will also be competing at Devon.

Another top rider, Margie Goldstein of Miami, Fla., who was 1991 Leading Rider of the American Grandprix Association $2 million tour, will be competing on Salut II and Daydream.

The $60,000 Grand Prix of Devon, at 8 p.m. Thursday, will be the first of two selection classes at Devon. The second will be the $25,000 Jumper Stake, the final class of the show on Saturday evening, May 30.

The Mighty Dogs, returning by popular demand, will make their second appearance as the exhibition at Devon this year.

The Mighty Dogs perform in a variety of classes, including speed and Puissance events, where their jumping ability, obedience and versatility are tested nightly.

The Devon Horse Show and Country Fair, which annually draws more than 100,000 spectators, benefits the Bryn Mawr Hospital. In 1991, Devon presented Bryn Mawr Hospital with a check for $300,000.

General admission is $6 for adults at the gate or $5 if purchased in advance. Children under 12 are $2.50 at the gate or $2 in advance.

Peach Blossoms, Open House Herald Orchard's New Season

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
NEW DANVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Bring in the sunshine, let out the bees.

Beginning at 9 a.m. and lasting until 3 p.m. today, visitors to Cherry Hill Orchards, owned and operated by Richard Haas, will have a chance to ride a hay wagon and tour the 160 acres of fruit trees, many of which are near full bloom.

Last week, the fruit farm, which employees 12 full-time and 33 seasonal workers, brought in 150 colonies of bees (about 1.5 million bees total) to help pollinate and cross-pollinate the sweet cherry and other fruit trees on the farm.

Located east of New Danville, the orchard operates two farms, with about 50 acres in apple production, 25 in peaches, 10 in pears, 60 in cherries, one in plums, 15 in nectarines, and one in apricots.

20 acres in vegetables

Also, Cherry Hill Orchards has about 20 acres in vegetable production, with the pumpkins available as pick-your-own. However, most of the fruit acreage is pick-your-own throughout the season.

Last week, the farm was busy planting 340 Granny Smith apple trees on a 3 foot by 14 foot basis. Also, they're busy installing a special trellis system to support new plantings, including a new variety of apple tree they introduced into the orchards, "Jonalicious" (a combination of Jonathan and Delicious).

Haas, who purchased the farm from Henry Landis Shank in 1970 after working more than seven years as orchard foreman, recently came back from a European tour.

While touring the orchards of Italy, Switzerland, and Germany for a week, Haas picked up valuable information related to trellising and tree density. He said he'll put many of the practices in place on his orchards.

Leading edge

Haas during a recent interview at his farm market.

Haas said many orchardists in this country continue to place the rows of apple trees about 14 feet apart. In Europe, orchardists use a higher density planting system — tree rows are marked at approximately nine foot widths. Also, the Europeans use smaller, more agile "lawn mower" type equipment, according to Haas.

"We're getting more intensive," he said.

Haas said that it costs Cherry Hill Orchards about $7,000 to put an acre of apple trees in of any variety. Each transplant costs from $5 to $6.50, often with an additional royalty fee for the use of the variety.

Jonalicious

The Jonalicious tree variety has been available since 1966 and was used in the past by Cherry Hill, according to Haas.

However, the Jonalicious trees previously on the Cherry Hill Orchard were placed in a bad location and didn't do as well. But since the customers enjoyed the variety, according to Haas, Cherry Hill Orchards decided to plant more in a better location.

As for the bees, they are important to cross-pollination, particularly the sweet cherry trees.

"With us, sweet cherries and apple plantings are the most important for pollination," said Haas. Haas said apples and pears need this pollination, but peaches and nectarines are self-pollinating.

Varieties self-fruitful

"I just planted some cherry varieties this spring that are self-fruitful," he said.

Most of the tart cherries are self-fruitful, but at the present time only two sweet varieties exist that are self-fruitful.

There are six colonies of bees per pallet and are moved first into the cherry orchards. About 150 colonies, or 25 pallets, will go into the sweet cherry orchards for pollinating the trees. Three pallets or 18 colonies will go into the pear orchards.

Work continues on pruning the pear and peach trees until about May 15. The cut branches will lie in rows until they are chopped up into fine pieces by a rotary mower.

The pieces have to be chopped finely to prevent harboring insects or disease.

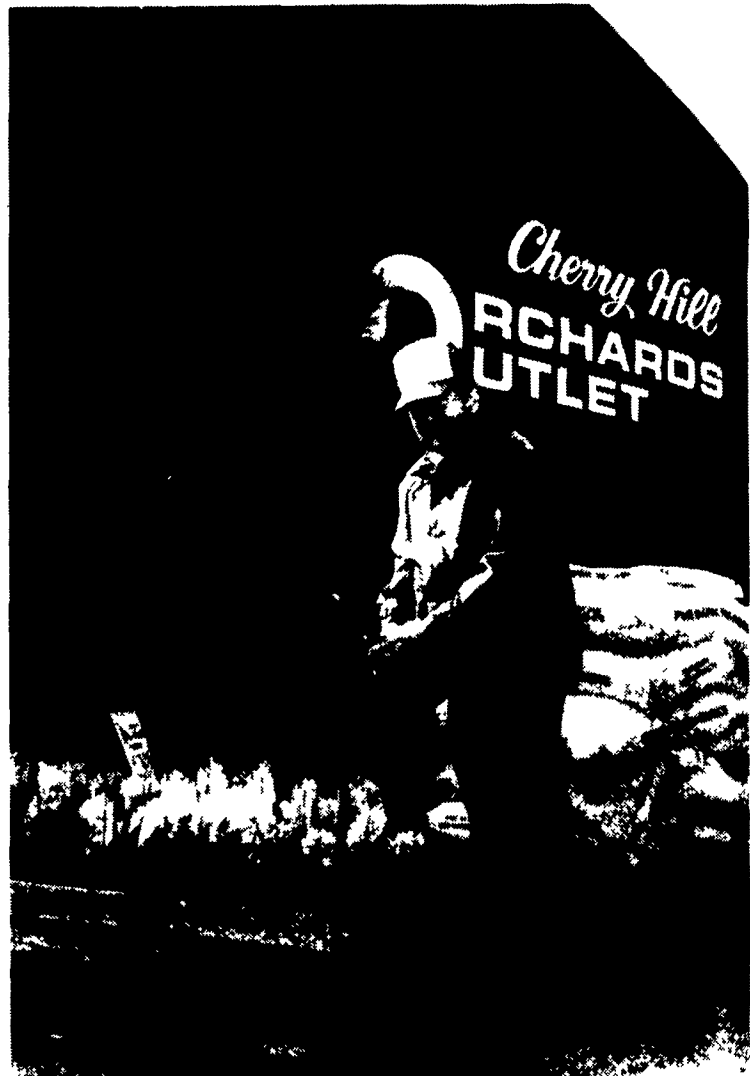

Right now, however, the buds are only beginning to bloom.

Joshua Breban, right, and Louis Serramo work on prune peach trees at Cherry Hill Orchards.

Richard Haas, owner and operator of Cherry Hill Orchards, said his orchard and outlet store will offer an open house beginning next week. Photo by Andy Andrews.

Many varieties of peaches are quite colorful and may be attractive the week of the open house. The tours continue the next three weeks. Hay rides are available Saturdays only, according to Haas. On the weekdays, visitors can walk through the orchards.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Hundreds of students, faculty, friends and alumni of the University of Maryland Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences will highlight their annual "Agriculture Day" celebration on April 25 with the opening of a new Animal and Poultry Science Building. Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert Walker will be among the dignitaries on campus to help dedicate the new building. "This new facility emphasizes the commitment College Park has made toward ensuring the future of the College of Agriculture and agricultural education in the state of Maryland," said Paul H. Mazzocchi, acting dean of the Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences. "This is only one step in a comprehensive program to build and renew our facilities to keep up with the industry's changing technologies, so that we can provide a first-class education for our students and carry out innovative research."

An important component to the fulfillment of the university's land-grant mission to the state's agricultural community, the $15.6 million Animal and Poultry Science Building will provide faculty and students with vastly improved laboratory and classroom space. The building contains two new classrooms, an elevated lecture hall, a reading room, two computer classrooms for graduate students, and a large computer classroom for undergraduate students. The new facility also provides state-of-the-art laboratories for faculty and students and a 50,000 square foot animal support facility and veterinary clinic. The new building is located on the north side of the campus, adjacent to the university barns.

For more information on "Ag Day" activities, contact the College of Agriculture at (301) 405-2071.

Company Identifies Corn Borer Genetic Controls

MADISON, Wis. — A naturally occurring and chemical-free European corn borer alternative may soon be available to U.S. corn producers.

Working together, scientists at Agrigenetics Company, the plant biotechnology research firm headquartered in Eastlake, Ohio, and Ciba-Geigy Seed Division, located in Greensboro, N.C., announced they have succeeded in identifying the location on several chromosomes of the major gene groups which confer resistance to both first and second generations of the insect.

The companies' researchers have already begun separately the process of incorporating that resistant genetic material into each company's "elite" lines of corn germplasm. The goal of the research programs is the development of high-yielding hybrids which will be more resistant to damage from one of the most troublesome pests faced by U.S. corn producers. Economic losses caused by the corn borer have been estimated to be as high as $100 million annually.

Environmental and Economic Advantage

"This is a significant plant biotechnology breakthrough," said Ciba-Geigy Seed Division president Mike Maggio. "For the industry, developing corn borer resistance has been slow. Use of this technology will allow us to reach that goal much faster."

According to John Studebaker, president of Agrigenetics Company, "As soon as these hybrids are proven ready for sale, farmers will realize an immediate economic gain because of reduced corn borer damage to their crops and cost savings from reduced chemical purchases."

Prior to this breakthrough, there has been little the farmer could do to combat the corn borer. Spraying with chemicals is not economical unless there is a very heavy infestation; even then, the effectiveness of the spraying depends on precise timing.

Separate Genetic Controls

Some corn plants have exhibited an observable level of genetic resistance to the European corn borer and breeders have used traditional plant breeding methods to select for that trait. However, it has been an elusive target and most modern hybrids are susceptible to damage from the pest.

Establishing genetic resistance to the corn borer is further complicated by the fact that resistance to first and second brood corn borer is controlled by separate genetic mechanisms.

Identification of the genetic controls took place through a unique intercompany effort involving Agrigenetics' research facility in Madison, Wis., using a laboratory technique known as Restriction Fragment Length Polymorphism (or RFLP) analysis, and extensive field studies of insect incidence conducted by Ciba-Geigy Seed Division at numerous locations in North America.

RFLP analysis is a process by which an association can be established between desirable performance characteristics and specific pieces of DNA that control these traits. During the field trial phase of this program, plants were infested with live corn borer larvae and were scored for the amount of resistance displayed.

Using RFLP techniques, the researchers then began by analyzing the DNA of corn plants known to carry resistance to corn borers and comparing that to DNA of plants that were susceptible. Through thousands of comparisons, using proprietary computerized data analysis techniques, researchers were able to identify multiple segments on several chromosomes which were unique to the resistant plants.

In the next phase of the project which is now under way, traditional plant breeding methods are used to make crosses between elite but susceptible parent lines and resistant plants to develop breeding populations which carry the desired corn borer resistance. Since an equally important objective of the program is to retain the exceptional performance of the original elite parent, progeny of those crosses will also undergo RFLP analysis.

Only those plants which are genetically most like the high-yielding parent line and which also carry the DNA segments associated with the resistance genes will advance in the breeding process. The detailed genetic information which RFLP technology provides now allows the development of new high-performing, pest-resistant lines to proceed much more quickly than was previously possible with traditional breeding techniques.

Agrigenetics Company corn borer research plots. Plants on left display a high degree of resistance to the pest. Susceptible plants at right show severe damage.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Something new and something old, farm animals and small children, hot dogs and bedding plants. This year's Student Ag Day on the campus of the University of Maryland at College Park again will offer the atmosphere and traditions of a country fair in an urban setting. The 66th annual event is scheduled Saturday, April 25 in the livestock barns area behind the Institute for Physical Science and Technology at the intersection of Regents Drive and Farm Drive. Activities will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge. Ag Day will get under way with traditional fitting and showing competition involving dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, and sheep. By 3:30 p.m. the winners in each livestock class will be exchanging animals to determine who deserves the honor of being selected grand champion showman. Other farm animals will be waiting in the livestock barns to make friends with youngsters attending Ag Day activities. Student riders from the nationally famous University of Maryland Cavalry Regiment will be grooming their horses for a 1 p.m. parade down Rhode Island Avenue on Sunday, April 26, that is being sponsored by the College Park Boys and Girls Club. Formal opening of the new Phase I addition to the nearby Animal Sciences Building is set for 11 a.m. in Room 0408 of the new section. Speakers will include Robert L. Walker, Maryland secretary of agriculture. At 2:30 p.m., several College of Agriculture faculty members will participate in a comedy-filled swine showmanship contest. Barbecued beef hamburgers and chicken hot dogs will be sold throughout the day by student clubs in the College of Agriculture. Bedding plants and vegetable transplants will be sold by the University of Maryland student chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. A new food item offered this year will be fried fish — farm-raised hybrid striped bass and possibly catfish — served by the student Aquaculture Club, organized last fall. Ag Day is sponsored each year in late April by the Agriculture Student Council at the University of Maryland, with cooperation from other student organizations in the College of Agriculture. This year's planning committee coordinator is Karen M. Young of Thurmont (Frederick County), a second-year ornamental horticulture student in the Institute of Applied Agriculture. Karen is a 1989 graduate of Catocin High School and a former state FFA reporter. Sherryl A. Fetter of Green Haven (Anne Arundel County), an animal sciences senior, is president of the Ag Student Council. Jerry V. Former DHIA Supervisor Paints Cow Portraits

LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) —

As a DHIA supervisor in North Carolina for 15 years, Margaret Askew often admired the show cows that the farmers raised.

She learned to look for the qualities that judges look at — the good spring of rib, straight topline with a slight slope from hook to pin, and a good overall appearance.

When she enrolled in an art course and the instructor advised the students to paint a subject that they know well, it seemed natural that Margaret chose a cow.

"What do I know better than cows?" she asked.

Her second painting was Gloryland-A Valiant Katrina (see photo), one of the top cows at Buttkes Dairy, where her husband was a manager.

Currently she is painting Rossland Astro Kat, the All American Aged Cow in 1991.

"I got so much support from my art teacher and class as well as the dairy people, and the registered cow breeders. It inspired me to keep painting cows," she said.

Margaret tries to personalize a cow's portrait by painting details that reflect the farm that owns the cow. For example, one farm was well-known for its redwood fence so she included the fence in the background.

Margaret had previous art training when she studied art at Guilford College in Greensboro, N.C.

"But when I was a student, I was more interested in fine arts. There was a move away from realism at the time and I wasn't interested in painting.

Margaret was delighted to find a community college art class this past year. Although she had to leave it when she moved, she found the help and support she needed to begin oil painting in the realistic style she had studied.

"With art you can enhance a cow and make the background pleasing. It's hard to photograph a cow and have it look as pleasing to the eye," Margaret said.

Her husband, Steve, who is employed at Kreider's Dairy, Manheim, points out characteristics that he believes are important to include on the cow portrait.

"If you own a cow and she has done well for you, you might consider honoring her with a portrait," Margaret said.

In her paintings, Margaret wants the outstanding qualities of the cow to be reflected. She prefers using photographs of the classic show stance taken from the side.

She finds her experience as both artist and as a farm-worker have given her cow portraits a realistic edge. An artist with a non-dairy background does not recognize and paint the show characteristics of cows.

Margaret's journey into the dairy industry began in 1976, when she became a DHIA supervisor for Orange County, N.C.

She became active in the DHIA program and later served as president of the North Carolina Supervisors Association for three years.

During that time, she designed and marketed meter holders.

"Supervisors had to carry expensive equipment and it was awkward. I thought I could design something that was easier to carry so I went to the drawing board," Margaret said.

She designed a meter tote that was economical and cut down on costly equipment damage due to improper stacking when hauling. The compact design allowed easy storage in limited space. Two meter totes could be converted into a 36-inch worktable.

She marketed the meter holders for several years.

"The drawback was that I used PVC plastic, which is not ideal since it became brittle when cold. But I couldn't find the ideal material at an economical cost," she said.

During her career as a DHIA supervisor, Margaret met her husband-to-be who was managing a dairy farm. Sometime after they married, he switched farms to become a dairy herd manager at one of the largest dairy herds in North Carolina — Buttkes Dairy Enterprises in Randleman.

When he took on that job, Margaret resigned as DHIA supervisor since the move took her out of Orange County. At Buttkes Dairy, she was hired to enter on-farm DHIA records in the computer for the herd Steve managed.

Since I had worked in computer processing from the supervisor's end and then as on-farm computer user, I am thoroughly familiar with the North Carolina DHIA program. "It processes herds from many states, and the processing center is top notch. Their turnaround time for processing cow records is overnight. The program is very detailed and has an easy format that offers tremendous management information at your fingertips," Margaret said.

When the price of milk bottomed out in North Carolina, Buttkes Dairy decided to hold a herd dispersal. During the transition, family members from Kreider Dairy Farms in Manheim visited the farm and asked Steve to work for them.

The Askews moved to the county on March 16. Margaret's warm southern drawl and friendly smile reflects southern hospitality. The couple is excited about moving to such a large dairy county as Lancaster and are pleased to find that countians are friendly.

While here, Margaret plans to pursue painting cows. The Askews may be contacted at 788 N. Penryn Rd., Manheim, PA 17545 or call (717) 664-3033.

Margaret's love for animals is not limited to cows. She has two Amazon parrots, numerous parakeets and canaries, slider turtles, several aquariums of tropical fish, two dogs and a cat.

Margaret also spends considerable time on creative cooking. Here are some of her favorite recipes.

Rarely a day goes by without the arrival of at least one.

Farm publications. They pile up on the kitchen table, stack up in the office and avalanche off the coffee table. Most get at least a brief, passing glance; others are studied from front cover to index/classifieds, ripped apart and cut up, selected articles to be studied, shared and saved.

Among the latest arrivals is a particularly fascinating one that I've read and re-read. Typical, it features on the front page, in color, a farmers with a sprayer hitched on a John Deere tractor, and is captioned "adjusting the jets for Blenheim in Wexford."

Huh, you say?

Wexford is in Ireland, Blenheim is a variety of autumn-sown malting barley and the photo is on front page of the Irish Farmers Journal. It was passed on to me by a friend, who while visiting in Ireland purchased the weekly farm newspaper at a rural newsstand.

The Irish national ag newspaper is a stunning testimony to how much farmers and farming are alike, wherever they're from.

Numerous articles throughout the 56-page paper focused on "stabiliser" prices, quota reductions and concern for other countries seeking to increase their levels of ag imports into Ireland. Tucked in were reports on the occupying of a Department of Agriculture office by beef producers extremely unhappy with the "inflexibility in rules interpretations" on some sort of beef premium program.

Sounds like some familiar complaints about "red tape."

Dairy articles addressed a court challenge being made to a free being imposed on farmers to pay for inspection, and detailed co-op merger talks. National averages of milk fat and protein levels were on a monthly graph. And a "pedigree page" included a photo of a champion Holstein heifer that could stand up to stateside competition.

Ireland's sheep producers, a large segment of their agriculture, lamented tumbling lamb prices, under their cost of production. A horse section charted the considerable drop in Irish horse exports over the past decade, with a proposed program to boost those falling export numbers.

"Cereal" is the European term for small grains, with numerous articles addressing cereal production and a full-page information chart of spring herbicides, rate and cost per hectare. A two-page spread detailed growing field peas and marrowfats (a similar legume, I believe). And a competition was underway to find the Farm Sprayer Operator of the Year.

Reports on a farm equipment show included photos of machinery very much like that in use around southern Pennsylvania. In fact, some of the equipment ads are practically indistinguishable from our familiar ones. On the other hand, equipment classifieds list Kverneland, Kellingstad, Overum and Fiskars ploughs, Kongskilde and Maschio harrows and this favorite of mine: "Zetor 8045 4 w.d. with hydrocut Giraffe." A Giraffe?

Campaign Focuses On Easy Beef Recipes

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)

— What's for dinner, America? In many cases, beef.

The variety of beef meals that Americans enjoy is expanding, due to newly discovered eclectic tastes and an increasing diversity of beef products available.

But many consumers still believe that at-home beef meals imply time-consuming preparation. That's why the beef industry is launching a new, national, multi-million dollar ad campaign May 18, to make consumers more aware of beef's role in convenient, contemporary dining.

A Country Living section included the expected garden articles, household tips on using soap (remove the wrapper and let it dry out), a personal account of a barn fire which killed some baby calves (and put me near tears), and a "personals" column. In the tasty-sounding section of recipes was a less-appealing Kidney in Onion.

Of personal interest was "The Hidden Workforce," a study made of the time farm women give to farm work and a crisis of identity some feel. Average farm size was 122 acres, age was in the 30-50 year bracket and only about half had legal status as a joint-owner or partner of the farm property. Many were concerned over their "retirement" status, something akin to our Social Security programs.

But through the entire paper with its many pictures, there was one marked difference from any U.S. farm publication I've ever read.

Not a single "farmer hat" could be found through the whole issue.

The campaign, called "Beef. It's What's for Dinner," represents more than $40 million investment of beef producers' checkoff dollars that's expected to pay-off with strong returns in sales, according to David Ivan of the Pennsylvania Beef Council. It will include an intensive array of prime-time, daytime and cable television advertising as well as magazine ad displays. On a retail level, the campaign will increase consumer interest and acceptance of beef as an everyday entree.

"Consumers in Pennsylvania and across the country enjoy beef in a variety of meals, from steaks to stir-frys, salads to fajitas," Ivan said. "Yet even some beef lovers don't realize just how easy it is to prepare beef recipes. The point of this campaign is to pleasantly surprise them with recipes that demonstrate the easy nature of beef cookery. The recipes, and the campaign as a whole, will highlight how easy it is to serve delicious beef entrees."

The new campaign will focus on a traditional beef-consuming audience that already purchases moderate to heavy amounts of beef, identified primarily as women meal preparers between 25 and 54 years old. To that end, it will showcase a diverse series of appealing beef recipes that each take less than 30 minutes to prepare.

Because the new campaign will concentrate on how beef's "easy versatility" fits into modern family lifestyles, Ivan said that it is a natural extension of the message conveyed by the beef industry's recent "Real Food for Real People" ad theme. Market research shows that that highly successful theme, launched in 1987, increased the awareness of beef to 74 percent of all consumers. The campaign was recognized by prestigious awards from the National Agri-Marketing Association and Advertising Age and Adweek magazines.

"The 'Real Food' approach was a good tool for describing lean beef's health benefits," Ivan said. "But 'Beef. It's What's for Dinner' is a more concrete call-to-action for retailers to help regain beef's share in everyday meal planning. Among today's consumers, that rests largely on positioning beef in quick and tasty recipes."

Soon after the national ads hit the airwaves, the beef industry will launch a retail promotion that will be displayed June 8 to July 31 in approximately 22,000 stores. The promotion will include an array of eight easy beef recipes such as "Beef Steaks with Tangy Corn Relish," "Fiesta Rib Eye Steaks" and "Italian Beef Stir-Fry." The dishes will be mirrored by national ads and made available to retailers in colorful point-of purchase materials including banners, mobiles, rail strips and take-home consumer recipe cards.

For added sales impact, Lea & Perrins Worcestershire and Steak Sauce will tie-in with the retail promotion May 17.

A grilling season toll-free beef information hotline is also being established to help retailers boost beef sales between two great grilling holidays — Father's Day to the 4th of July. During this time, the number, 1-800-392-BEEF, is available to consumers who want preparation tips for easy outdoor meals with beef.

May Day Fest Celebrates Spring

BLUE BALL (Lancaster Co.) — May Day has never been observed as enthusiastically in America as it has been elsewhere for centuries. A number of herbalists hope to change all that — in eastern Pennsylvania, anyway — when they appear at a May Day Fest celebrating the renewal of spring.

Designed as an educational experience for anyone interested in herbs, the May Day Fest will feature ongoing demonstrations in a dozen areas. The free event will be held at Village Herb Shop, Blue Ball, on Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

One presentation will recreate medieval times and their routine use of herbs in medicines and foods. Both the authentic and legendary uses of herbs in medieval history will be covered.

Another historical perspective will be seen in an exhibit on tussie-mussies and the language of flowers. These traditional uses will be shown and discussed, as will working with fresh and dried wedding herbs.

Of course, May Day for children has always meant May baskets. Workshops on making May baskets and crowns will be held for all interested kids (adults are welcome to watch).

Other classic herbal crafts demonstrations will showcase the making of soaps and candles, rose and lavender water, potpourri and bath products. Pressed flower crafts will be presented as well.

For people interested in aromatherapy, its applications in home and workplace will be discussed. A display of oils — complemented by a demonstration of techniques for blending herbs, oils and spices — will round out the presentation.

Mustard and herbal vinegar are two food products that will be represented at the May Day Fest. 100% natural mustards will be available in conjunction with a talk on choosing and combining ingredients and using the finished product. A second display will contain 12 different types of herbal vinegars. Recipes, ideas on uses and sampling will be offered.

To satisfy bigger appetites, an herbal restaurant will be operated by the Fillet Shop of New Holland and will serve soups, sandwiches, salads, desserts and beverages from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Groups can order from a menu of three gourmet box lunches by calling Village Herb Shop (717) 354-6494 in advance. At the event, the restaurant's chef will answer any questions about preparing herbal foods.

Finally, a May Day Fest wouldn't be complete without plenty of plants. Several gardens will be open for touring, and there will be potted plants propagated from common and rare herb seeds, along with information on various seed sources.

Bus and other parking will be available behind Blue Ball Fire Hall, which is across 322 East from the renovated warehouse housing Village Herb Shop. Admission to the May Day Fest is free. It will be held rain or shine (outside exhibits will be moved inside in the event of rain).

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, April 25, 1992-B5

Pat Dyer, owner of the Village Herb Shop, right, and Chef Sally Kramer plan a menu featuring herbs for the May Day Fest, which celebrates the shop's 10th anniversary.

'Fishy' Recipes: A Healthy Choice

Fresh seafood is an excellent source of protein, a good source of minerals and some vitamins, and it is low in fats, cholesterol, and sodium. In general, seafood is one of the most nutritionally balanced foods. A seafood diet helps control weight and goes a long way toward preventing heart disease.

When buying fresh seafood, use your eyes, hands, and nose. Buy what looks the best and smells good. Fresh fish should have little or no odor. The odor is often described as that of a sea breeze.

Timing is the secret to delicious fish cookery. Fish is properly cooked when the flesh has just begun to turn from translucent to opaque or white. The meat is firm but still moist and should be just ready to flake. Fish becomes dry and tasteless if overcooked.

To avoid overcooking, use the 10-minute rule, which means you should allow 10 minutes of cooking time for every inch thickness of fish.

VEGETABLE FISH CHOWDER

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 medium onion, chopped
2 medium carrots, chopped
2 stalks celery, chopped
2 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
2½ cups water
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon dill

1½ pounds firm, white-fleshed fish such as haddock or cod cut into bite-sized chunks
12-ounce can evaporated skim milk

Pepper to taste
Heat oil in a 4-quart saucepan and saute onion about 5 minutes. Add carrots, celery, potatoes, water, and herbs. Cover and gently simmer until vegetables are just tender, about 15 minutes. Add fish and simmer about 5 to 10 minutes more, until fish is just cooked.

Stir in evaporated skim milk and heat to serving temperature; do not boil.

Add salt, if desired, and pepper to taste.

Yields 10 cups.

1 cup has 140 calories, 17g protein, 13 g carbohydrate, 2 fat, 41 mg cholesterol, 108 mg sodium.

SHORELINE TUNA SALAD

7-ounce can tuna, drained and flaked

10½-ounce can condensed cream of shrimp soup

2 cups cooked elbow macaroni

½ cup diced green pepper

2 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives, optional

1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Dash pepper

In bowl, combine ingredients; chill. Serve on crisp salad greens. Makes about 4 cups.

KRAB-ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE

1 pound crab meat or sea legs, cut in small pieces

20-ounces canned asparagus, cut, well-drained

½ cup sliced almonds

½ cup chopped celery

½ cup low-calorie mayonnaise

2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

¼ cup freshly grated mild cheddar cheese

Paprika

Place asparagus in a well-greased baking dish. Combine crab meat, almonds, celery, mayonnaise, and lemon juice. Spread crab mixture over asparagus. Top with cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated thoroughly and cheese is melted. Serves 8.

PAN-FRIED CATFISH

½ cup yellow cornmeal

1 teaspoon paprika

½ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon celery salt

½ teaspoon pepper

¼ teaspoon dry mustard

¼ teaspoon onion powder

1 cup milk

2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Combine cornmeal and seasonings. Dip fish fillets in milk and roll in seasoned cornmeal. Place fillets in a single layer in hot oil in a skillet. Fry on moderate heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn carefully and continue cooking another 3 to 5 minutes or until fish are brown and just begin to flake when tested with a fork. Drain oil. Makes 4 servings.

Grilled Seafood Steaks are easy to make. Mix together and marinate 1 pound of seafood steaks (tuna, shark, swordfish) in ¼ cup red wine vinegar, ¼ cup olive oil, ½ teaspoon basil, ½ teaspoon oregano, ½ teaspoon thyme, ½ teaspoon garlic powder or 1 minced clove. Grill 4 to 5 minutes on each side.

Melt margarine in skillet over medium heat. Saute onion, mushrooms, parsley, fennel seed, and thyme in margarine until onion is transparent. Stir in bread crumbs. Place 2 fillets in a shallow pan that has been lined with aluminum foil. Cover both with stuffing mixture and cover each with the remaining fillets. Bake at 350 degrees about 15 minutes or until the flesh flakes when tested with a fork. Garnish with lemon slices.

2 tablespoons oil

2 tablespoons white wine vinegar

¼ teaspoon dry mustard

¼ teaspoon thyme

1 leek, sliced thin

8-ounces mushrooms, sliced

2 ounces oil

3 tablespoons soy sauce

3 cups chicken stock, hot

1½ ounces cornstarch

½ cup cold water

Saute vegetables in hot oil until tender but still crisp. Add soy sauce and chicken stock, bring to a boil.

Dissolve cornstarch in cold water. Add to hot sauce; stir gently and simmer until clear and thickened. Remove from heat. Broil fish filets no more than 10 minutes on greased pans. Transfer to 2-inch buffet pans. Top each fillet with 2-ounces of vegetable mixture.

SAVORY BAKED SHARK

2 pounds skinned shark steaks or fillets

2 teaspoons lemon juice

¼ teaspoon pepper

6 slices bacon, chopped

½ cup soft bread crumbs

2 tablespoons chopped parsley

¼ cup thinly sliced onion

Thaw fish if frozen. Place fish in a single layer in a greased baking dish, 12x8x2 inches. Sprinkle with lemon juice and pepper. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from drippings; drain and crumble. Combine bacon, bread crumbs, and parsley. Cook onion in bacon drippings until tender. Spread onion mixture over fish. Sprinkle crumb mixture over top of onion. Bake in 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

With today's fast pace lifestyle, more and more families are relying on the microwave for quick, easy meals. Here are several tips for using the microwave to prepare your favorite dairy recipes from Wayne County Dairy Princess Carrie Bryant.

- When making white sauce, stir the sauce several times during cooking.
- Reheat sauces that contain whipping cream just until hot. Do not overheat.
- Unless a recipe states otherwise, use medium heat to microwave foods that contain cheese.
- When microwaving cheese, stir often to promote even heating.
- To soften butter, unwrap and microwave on 10% heat in a safe container for 1 to 1.5 minutes or until softened.
- To prevent shredded cheese on top of casseroles from becoming tough, add the cheese after the dish is completely cooked.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk

Place butter in a 4-cup glass measuring cup. Microwave on high for 30 to 40 seconds, or until melted. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper until smooth. Gradually blend in milk. Microwave on high for 6 to 7 minutes, stirring every minute.

Yields 1 cup.

Variation: Cheddar Cheese Sauce: Prepare basic white sauce using the above method. Remove sauce from microwave, and stir in ¼ cup shredded cheddar cheese until melted. Yields 1½ cups.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

Although recipes for sweet foods are all to common, they're usually not for the microwave. Those that follow, however, are microwave "baked" and feature some improvisations that don't require fancy or expensive new cookware. Maple Nut Ring and Cherry Caramel Ring can be made in an eight inch dish with a four inch high drinking glass or six ounce custard cup placed in the center serving as the hole in the ring.

Maple Nut Ring

1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons brown sugar (packed)
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup maple syrup
1 roll (10 oz.) buttermilk biscuits
Invert 6 oz. custard cup in center of lightly greased 8 inch round dish. In small bowl, mix together walnuts, brown sugar, sugar and cinnamon. Place maple syrup in small bowl. Coat each biscuit with syrup, then sugar-nut mixture. Arrange in circle in prepared dish, overlapping edges. Microwave at MEDIUM heat 8 to 10 minutes, rotating dish 1/2 turn after 4 minutes. Remove custard cup and invert onto serving plate. Sprinkle with any remaining sugar-nut mixture. Serve warm. To make a stacked maple nut ring, make two rings, inverting one over the other. Drizzle with confectioners sugar glaze made by mixing 1 cup confectioners sugar and 1 to 2 tablespoons mix.

Cherry Caramel Ring

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup brown sugar (packed)
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/2 cup pecan halves
1 cup maraschino cherries, quartered
1 roll (10 oz.) buttermilk biscuits
Place butter in 8 inch round dish. Microwave at HIGH 1/2 to 3/4 minutes until melted. Sprinkle sugar over butter and add corn syrup. Stir well with fork. Place drinking glass in center of dish. Sprinkle with pecans and cherries. Arrange biscuits over mixture in dish in petal shape, squeezing to fit, if necessary. Microwave at MEDIUM 6 to 8 minutes, rotating dish 1/2 turn after 3 minutes. Remove glass and invert onto serving plate. Let dish stand over rolls a few minutes so remaining syrup in dish may drizzle over rolls. Serve warm.

Fluffy Muffins

2 cups unsifted all purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup cooking oil
1/2 cup milk
In mixing bowl stir flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Make a well in center of dry mixture. Combine eggs, oil and milk. Add all at once to dry ingredients and stir just to moisten. Fill paper lined microwave containers 1/2 full. Microwave 3 to 5 minutes for 6 muffins. If you don't have a microwave muffin tin, you can cut the tops from paper (not styrofoam) hot drink cups, leaving 1 inch up the side. Line each with a fluted paper baking cup. Arrange in a ring on a flat plate.

For The Children to Make S'Mores

2 graham cracker squares
1/2 plain chocolate bar
1 large marshmallow
On paper napkin place 1 graham cracker square. Top with chocolate and marshmallow. Microwave at HIGH 1/4 minute or 15 seconds. Place remaining cracker over top and eat like a sandwich.
Chocolate Chow Mein "Haystacks"
1 package (6 oz.) semi sweet chocolate pieces
1 can (3 oz.) chow mein noodles
In 3 qt. casserole or large bowl place chocolate pieces. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave at MEDIUM or LOW heat for 4 to 4 1/2 minutes or until melted. Stir chocolate smooth. Add noodles and using 2 forks toss to coat well. On strips of foil or wax paper form into 1-1/2 inch clusters. Cool to set. Makes about 24 1-1/2 inch "Haystacks".

Pickled Red Beet Eggs

- 10 to 12 hard-boiled eggs
- 1 pint red beets, sliced with juice
- ½ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup vinegar
- 1 medium onion, sliced

Shell eggs. Place in large jar or bowl with a lid. Add sliced onions, salt, and pepper. Add beets with juice and vinegar. Add more vinegar according to taste. If too sour, add more water. Cover and store in refrigerator 2 to 3 days before using. Keeps in refrigerator for 2 to 3 weeks.

ANSWER — Carol Grove, Somerville, Va., wanted a recipe for making funnel cakes from scratch. Thanks to Denise Hudgins, Upperco, Md.; Carol Resh, Grantsville, Md., and others for sending recipes.

Funnel Cakes

- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3 cups milk
- 4 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- Oil for frying

Combine eggs and milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat well. Heat oil in skillet. Put batter into funnel, holding finger over hole. Hold funnel over hot oil and remove your finger, letting the batter fall while moving the funnel in rings. Turn with fork when brown. Remove from oil when funnel cake is brown on both sides. Dust with powdered sugar and serve warm.

Pennsylvania Dutch Funnel Cakes

- 3 medium-size eggs
- 2 cups milk
- ¼ cup sugar
- 4 cups flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla or ¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Beat eggs and add milk and sugar. Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together. Add dry ingredients to egg and milk mixture. Beat batter until smooth. Batter should be thin enough to run through small funnel so add more milk if necessary. Drop mixture from funnel into hot, deep fat (375 degrees), holding funnel hole to control the amount of batter released. Use an 8-inch skillet. Swirl batter into circle, gradually enlarging circle to desired size. Fry until golden brown. Remove from fat and drain on paper towels. When cooled, dust with confectioners' sugar or use maple syrup. This recipe makes a large amount. If funnel cakes are left over, bag in plastic to keep fresh and powder with confectioners' sugar when ready to use.

- 1 pound crab meat
- 1 egg
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon seafood seasoning
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ cup cracker or bread crumbs
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ¼ teaspoon white pepper

Remove all cartilage from crab meat. In a bowl, mix together egg, mayonnaise, seafood seasoning, white pepper, and Worcestershire sauce and dry mustard. Add crab meat; mix evenly. Add cracker or bread crumbs evenly. Shape into 6 cakes. Deep fry in oil at 350 degrees for 2 to 3 minutes or saute in a frying pan with a little oil for 5 minutes on each side. Cook until golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

BLUEFISH WITH SAUCE

- 2-pound bluefish fillets
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup horseradish
- Paprika
- Juice of 2 lemons

Squeeze the juice of 1 lemon over each fillet. This reduces the oily flavor sometimes associated with bluefish. Let stand for 30 minutes. Mix together equal parts of mayonnaise and horseradish. ANSWER — Ruby Kistler, New Tripoli, wanted a recipe to make soft pretzels. Thanks to Martha Stoltzfus, Paradise; Mrs. Samuel Weaver, Myerstown; and Holly Steinruck, Benton; for sending recipes.

Soft Pretzels

- 2 packages yeast
- 1½ cups warm water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4½ cups flour
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar

Mix together ingredients. Let rise 15 minutes. Shape dough in pretzel shape. Dissolve 4 teaspoons soda in 1 cup warm water, dip pretzels in this mixture before baking. Bake at 450 degrees for 5 minutes. Put under broiler until brown.

Ninety-Minute Soft Pretzels

- 1 cup warm water
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter, softened
- 3¼ to 3½ cups flour
- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- 1 tablespoon water
- Coarse salt

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in dry active yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in sugar, salt, butter, and 2 cups flour. Beat until thoroughly blended. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn on to lightly floured board, knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft for 40 minutes.

Turn dough on lightly floured board. Divide in half, divide each half into 6 equal pieces. Roll each piece into a 20-inch long rope. Shape each rope into a pretzel. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover and let rise 5 minutes.

Combine egg yolk and 1 tablespoon water; brush each pretzel with egg yolk mixture. Sprinkle with coarse salt. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

Hints: put butter on the pretzels as they come out of the oven. The butter keeps them soft and it sinks in. For a golden brown color, dip the pretzels in baking soda and water solution before baking.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $110 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past four years, we returned more than $110 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $31,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Lebanon Lil' Miss Bethanie Heagy Finds Work Is Fun

LOU ANN GOOD

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) —

Although only five years old, Bethanie Heagy knows more about the farm and dairy products than many adults.

She is Lebanon County's Lil' Miss Dairy Princess. She finds her job handing out stickers, coloring books, cow erasers, and cheese a fun job. She likes to wear her crown and banner when she hands out cheese.

"I like to eat cheese, lots of cheese. Cheese comes from cows," Bethany said.

Bethanie helps her parents, Luke and Carol Heagy, with the dairy herd on their 80-acre farm in Lebanon County.

"Each evening I get the cows in all by myself," Bethanie said. "I go out to the pasture and say, 'Ho...Ho....' and the cows go."

When the 65 cows are in the barn, Bethanie said, "I dip the cows. I carry the milker out. I feed the calves."

Bethanie's mother said, "Milking time is family time. Everyone goes to the barn and helps in the evening."

When her jobs are finished in the barn, Bethanie rides bike in the barn.

"We all ride bike in the barn," Bethanie said, meaning her brother and sister ride tricycles too. "It's lots of fun."

Everywhere she goes, Bethanie finds work is fun. She is proud that she is her mother's big helper. Because Bethanie has a two-year-old brother and a sister who are twins, she finds plenty to do. Without pausing, Bethanie chatters about the many things she does each day.

"When I wake up, I like to go downstairs and feed Billy the canary. I get pillows and stack them up and plunk them down for a chair. I like to read books to Micah and Faith," Bethanie said.

"I like to tie shoes, help Mom in the kitchen, wash dishes, and put dishes away from the dishwasher," she said. "I help Mom bake cookies, bread, and cinnamon rolls. I put trash in bags, sweep the porch, wash the porch, scrub windows, Bethanie Heagy goes to the pasture to lead the cows to the barn for the evening milking. "I say, 'Ho...Ho....' and they go," said Bethanie.

walls, and floors.

"I help get cotton for the cows, strip cows, go to dairy princess things, clean my room, and be Mom's big helper.

"The best thing is to go to Sunday school and Junior church. I like to sing in the choir."

With such an impressive list of things to do, Bethanie was asked if there was anything that she did not enjoy doing. Sure enough, she had a few.

She said, "I don't like to pick up toys. I don't like to play with Cocky Locky the rooster because he flaps and scratches me."

Bethanie said that Cocky Locky is now in a pen where the rooster can't bother her when she gathers eggs from the chickens.

At the end of a busy day, Bethanie said, "I like hot water, splashy baths especially when I'm cold. Then I like to get out of the water and sit in front of the heater where I read a story before I go to bed."

"I like tractors and cows. I want to grow up to be a farmer's wife," Bethanie said.

When Bethanie entered the pageant last year to try for the Lebanon County Li'l Miss title, she recited the following poem during the competition. Bethanie's mother helped her make it up by changing the words from another poem.

"Little Miss Muffet sat on a tuffet, thanking Jesus for curds and whey. Along came a spider and sat down beside her and listened to Miss Muffet pray:

Thank you, Lord Jesus, for good things to eat like milk, butter, and ice cream sweet. I really don't see how you feed this big world, the lions, tigers, the pigs with tails curled. Puppies and rabbits, sheep and cats on your food they dine. So thank you, Lord Jesus, for my kitty's food and mine."

Bethanie finds her chickens have laid a lot of eggs for her to collect.

Bethanie rings the dinner bell. "I don't ring it to tell people to come for dinner, I just ring it for fun," Bethanie said.

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Escott

Extension Home Economist

A Father's Regrets

The late Harry Chapin used to sing a gripping ballad, "Cat's in the Hat," telling the tale of a father who realizes too late the importance of spending time with his son.

Regrets. As a home economist, I spend part of my work week helping people develop strategies to juggle their areas of commitment. Most of that work is with frazzled women.

But Dads can't be excluded. For the past six months, I've been working with a "working dad" on a series designed especially for men that will equip them to be more successfully involved with home and child care activities. Men's involvement is critical to the stability of the family.

For a father, becoming more involved in the lives of his children is not simply a matter of rearranging priorities. According to psychologist, Roderick Gilkey, "What we're talking about is defending the family."

Here are the foundational principles:

- Becoming involved is a visible, physical way to demonstrate care to a spouse.

- Becoming involved provides children with a much-needed positive male role-model.

- Being more involved now means fewer regrets in the future. Unfortunately, 25-30% of fathers aged 48 to 70 express a sense of regret. One dad said, "I guess I rationalized it and kept thinking that the time would come when I could spend more time with the kids. But I never did. All the sudden they're gone...I can't make up for it"

In some cases farm families have advantages over urban families in this respect. Often parents and children work side-by-side on the farm communicating and supporting each other. But often even for rural families, adults and children are scattered during the day, and at night everyone is isolated working on individual tasks.

It is time to shake the system. Each of us MUST become devoted to a new set of priorities that focuses less on tasks and more on relationships.

And women, we play a big role in making this happen. Asking or allowing another person to become involved in areas that we have formerly taken care of by ourselves means letting go. That person needs power to do things differently. He also needs permission to practice and fail.

That's where my survival series comes in. For three nights, we are allowing men to try new skills (without having their wives looking over their shoulders, correcting them). Quick meals, shopping and quick cleaning strategies, tips for entertaining children-these are the components of the series. We hope that men will come-even men that are single or may be divorced and not have custody of their children.

Why? Not because it is such a victory to be able to make a great casserole, but because by doing physical tasks you show support to others. This is truly an investment in relationships.

Men, your families need you! You may be wondering how to squeeze this noble cause into an already packed day. Last year, I uncovered a wonderful article by Dolores Curran about "wasting time with Dad". She begins by describing how a father and child spent a day on a fishing trip. The child reflects, "Went fishing with Dad. It was great!" But the father's comments are far less positive, "Went fishing but didn't catch anything. Pretty much a waste of time."

The time you spend with your family is not wasted. Practice valuing it in a new way. The memories that children recall of time spent with dads are usually tales of just "hanging out." these times may be afternoons in a garage or walks home from the school bus. It's YOU they want.

As men learn to devote themselves to the cause of defending the family, they will slowly whittle away the looming threat of future regrets. Women, give them space. Change takes time.

Funnel Cakes Sizzle In Preparation For Auction

LOU ANN GOOD

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.)

—The oil is sizzling and taste buds are watering at Jim and Lillian Zimmerman's home in Mount Joy.

It's funnel cake practice time for the Zimmerman family. This annual practice session always takes place in the spring of the year. It's in preparation for the Kraybill Mennonite School Benefit Auction where the Zimmerman family will fry and sell funnel cakes all day long on Saturday, May 9.

For those who aren't familiar with this Pennsylvania Dutch specialty, funnel cakes are made from a batter similar to pancake batter. The batter is drizzled into hot oil in a circular motion. When the dough is lightly browned, it is removed from the oil and dusted with confectioners' sugar. The funnel cake resembles a lacy pastry, and is popular with people of all ages.

During the auction, the funnel cakes will be sold for $1 each.

Funnel cake making is a bit messy. Since only one can be made in a pan at a time, it's time consuming, but for funnel cake lovers everywhere, one mouth savoring bite that melts in your mouth will convince you that funnel cakes are worth the time and effort it takes to make them.

Since the Zimmermans have plenty of practice making funnel cakes, they have the method down to a fine art. In fact, they even have a few tools especially fashioned to make the chore easier.

To start with, Lillian uses Funnel Cake Mix from Golden Barrel.

"It tastes just as good as mixing the ingredients myself and it's a lot less time consuming," Lillian said.

Corn oil is heated to about 350 degrees. The mix is combined with equal parts of warm water.

"Never use cold water because the oil will splatter," Lillian said.

After using a wire whisk to prepare the batter, it is poured into an oil can purchased specifically for the job of making funnel cakes for a crowd.

Poultry farmer John Wolgemuth from Elizabethtown designed a round holder with a handle from iron. This is placed in the hot oil and 1 cup of the batter is drizzled in a circular motion into the holder, which helps keep the funnel cakes in a round shape.

"If the batter is not poured evenly into the hot oil, the funnel cake may become too thick in areas," Lillian said.

At home, Lillian uses her Jenn-Air stove, but at the sale, she uses gas burners and an old iron kettle.

When the funnel cake is lightly browned on one side, it is flipped to the other side. When it is browned on both sides, the funnel cake is held above the pan to drain off the excess oil before flipping it onto a plate.

Ten-year-old Crystal uses a sifter to sprinkle confectioners' sugar on the cake and it is served hot.

"It makes it easy for us to make the funnel cakes because we sell all the supplies at our store," Lillian said.

The Zimmermans operate both a farm and a country store along the Manheim-Mount Joy Road. Jim has 25 cows and 34,000 chickens on their 40-acre farm.

Lillian operates the store with the help of their children, Jamson, 18; Angela, 16; Donovan, 13; and Crystal, 10.

"I always played store as a little girl and I wanted to have a store that could help people save money," Lillian said.

Her dream became a reality 13 years ago. They buy bulk food in 100-pound packages, which they repackage in smaller amounts to sell. The store was enlarged and now includes baking supplies, nuts, dried fruits, lunch meat, cheese, and almost every item that appears in grocery stores except household cleaners.

Funnel Cakes Sizzle

"On many items, people can really save money, especially on the meat and cheese, one pound bought here costs about one-half of that sold elsewhere," Lillian said.

Because the Zimmerman children attend or have graduated from Kraybill Mennonite School, the family enjoys helping to make the annual benefit auction a success.

The 15th annual auction will be held Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9, at 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy.

On Friday, a pig roast, craft and plant sale, and Winross truck auction will be held. Tom Fredlund, a professional landscaper will be there to answer plant questions.

A country breakfast of egg omelets and homefries or pancakes and sausage will be served on Saturday from 7 to 9 a.m. The auction of new and used items will begin at 9 a.m. More than 20 quilts will be auctioned at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

The auction will be at 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy, Pa. 17552. For more information, call (717) 653-5236.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Things change so gradually that we hardly recognize the differences unless we seriously think about them.

When I got married we moved into an old house without plumbing and only recently installed electricity. So I washed dishes in a dishpan on the table and used water heated on a coal stove. It was carried in a bucket from the well in the lower corner of the yard. Now even the hand pump is gone and the well is sealed for sanitary purposes.

The wash machine was kept in the summerhouse and the oil in the motor thickened in cold weather and it could not be started. And, this was during the time that I had loads of cloth diapers to wash.

We had numerous people knock on the door. They brought bread several times a week and we had peddlars display their wares. A man from York County came regularly to buy our rags and another fellow ask to sharpen our knives and scissors. My mother told of the weekly visit of the ice man and the fish man. She said that they ate oyster soup every Saturday night. Even the men who buy junk seldom come to the farm anymore.

Gradually, we acquired modern appliances and our work was made easier. Now the visitors to the farm are salesmen and delivery people who bring farm supplies. Of course, the milk tank truck comes regularly as does the mailman. But life on the farm is quite different than it was 50 years ago.

Lillian sells funnel cake supplies at the Country Store located on their farm on Manheim-Mount Joy Road. The quilt hanging in the background will be auctioned at the benefit auction on May 9.

Capitol Area Beekeepers Association

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The Capital Area Beekeepers Association will hold its fourth annual short course on Saturday, May 2, at the Dauphin County Agriculture Extension Building on Route 225 north of Dauphin.

The purpose of the course is to assist new beekeepers in getting started in an enjoyable hobby, and to offer additional information to present beekeepers. The course will be taught by beekeepers, and the staff from Penn State. Topics will include: Hive Management, Equipment, Bee Diseases and Pest, Harvesting, and Marketing. Experience with hiving a package of bees will also be part of the course. A package of bees will be the door prize of one lucky participant.

Cost is $15 per person. For registration and additional information contact: Linda Kerstetter (717) 469-7244, David Calderone (717) 737-6331 or the Extension Office at (717) 921-8803.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met at the Memorial United Methodist Church, Quarryville, where they entertained Societies No. 26 and 15 and the County officers, on Thursday April 2.

Following the covered dish luncheon, Nancy Axe conducted the devotions using a portion of Romans 9 for the scripture after which she read "A Recipe for a Perfect Day."

In answer to the Roll Call everyone told of their first paying job. The pay was very small back on the '30s and '40s. Following a few words from the presidents of the guest societies the state president, Arlene Witman, stated there was a profit of $20,000 from the sale of the cook books and a portion of this will be used for scholarships.

The president, Vera Herr, presided at the business meeting. Freda Wimer of the Sewing Committee reported there were 336 bed pads and 22 bibs completed and ready for Luther Acres. June 6th there will be a yard sale and on the 18th we are to be guests of Society #15.

Bertha Armstrong spoke about her Friendship Teacups. She had quite a few memorable ones. One was from Alaska. One was from Africa as they had a four month tour of Africa. She had a cup from a dear friend who invited her to her wedding that was very unusual. The bride sang while coming up the aisle and then she sang to the groom, "I will love you but I must first love Christ. I will honor you but I must first honor Christ and I will obey you but I must obey God first."

The meeting was closed by singing "Brighten the Corner". In May members will tour Herr's Potato Factory and then have lunch at "The Old Post House."

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 met at the Hefford home of Virginia Taylor.

President Elsie Rothenberger presided at the meeting with seven members and a guest, Bonnie Bechtel, attended. Verna Taylor of Perry County dropped in via telephone.

Several ladies plan to attend the Spring Rally on May 27 at Host Farms in Lancaster County.

The next meeting on May 5 will be at the Boyertown RD$ home of Ferne Kulp.

Lebanon Executive Board

The Lebanon County Society of Farm Women held its Executive Board meeting on Wednesday, April 1, at the Farm and Home Center at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds. Following devotions by Minerva Lentz and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, led by Crystal Mayer, 2nd vice president; the county president, Fern Hitz, conducted the business meeting. Discussions included scholarship applications, which are due by May 1. The Cedar Haven project which has a deadline of June 1, a bakeless sale to benefit the State

Farm Women Heifer project, the Lebanon Area Fair display, and also Lebanon County Farm Women Cookbooks which are still available for sale. Our county convention will be held at the Church of the Brethren in Myerstown on October 19.

This year the Spring Rally will be held on May 27, at the Host Resort Motel in Lancaster County. Entertainment will be a Fashion Show presented by "Country Lane Boutique, Too" from Landisville, Pa., and "Kinnier and Townsend," a musical comedy team.

York Society 7

York County Farm Women #7 met at the home of Donna Hoover. Gladys Glatfelter was co-hostess.

Fourteen members wore "come as you are" clothing and each named an elementary school teacher for roll call.

Viola Druck shared pictures of the group which dated back to 1948.

A Mother-Daughter banquet is planned for May 13 at 6:00 p.m.

Designed to be splash and dust resistant in accordance with NEC Article 547.

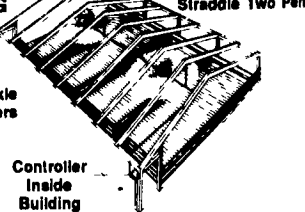

The "Vari-Speed" VENTILATING Control is a SOLID STATE, single phase, variable motor speed controller, designed to automatically ventilate industrial, commercial and agricultural facilities. Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo
With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?

PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

Milk More Of A Health Kick Than Ever

York (York Co.) — Each of us has gotten the speech about how milk is good for the body and we should drink lots of it. And by now we all should know that milk makes our teeth and bones strong and helps us to have big, strong muscles. But many of us really don't know about the new discoveries dealing with milk that scientists recently found. Today, milk has been proven to be an even healthier drink.

Now when we pick up a cold, tall glass of milk to drink we can help to keep our blood pressure low along with refueling our bodies with nutrients. It has been proven that diets low on calcium may cause hypertension. In a Boston University study, it was noted that 79 preschoolers who consumed 100 mg of calcium per 100 calories, mostly by drinking milk, had slightly lowered their blood pressure. Those who consumed very low amounts of calcium or magnesium had a 23% greater chance of developing high blood pressure over four years. Also it was proven that people with a history of high blood pressure who drank two glasses of milk a day were protected from high blood pressure. The projects that increased calcium intake showed that this will eliminate 50% of the high blood pressure cases and reduce 60% of the premature babies born today.

Did you know that by drinking whole milk you could lessen your risk of a heart attack? This is also true. Americans today have an inadequate calcium intake. Which is easily understood since the total population's annual consumption of soda is 47 gallons versus 21 gallons of milk. Many Americans think that soda is a pretty harmless addiction. There's no hangover, no fat, no cholesterol. But new studies out of Harvard's School of Public Health suggest that binging on soda can weaken bones. The presence of phosphoric acid in sodas, interferes with the absorption of calcium, which the body uses to build bone. This is a troubling fact, because many athletes drink large amounts of soda which means they are more likely to get broken or fractured bones. The simple fact is that people are drinking soda where they once drank milk, so calcium intake is down and bone fracture incidence is up.

Dairy Products are also an important part of the diet, which also have new scientific discoveries. Aged Cheddar Cheese has been proven to help fight tooth decay because of an enzyme which forms a protective coating on your teeth. Also it was recently discovered that a bacteria found in yogurt helps to prevent cancer. So the next time you reach for that cold soda take a minute and think about all the benefits that milk has to offer and pour yourself a tall, cold glass every day.

MILK definitely is America's Health Kick!

Machinery Safety Course

Nine Adams County teens successfully completed the tractor and farm machinery safety course. The program was conducted by the Adams County Penn State Cooperative Extension 4-H program in cooperation with the High School Vo-Ag Departments throughout the county.

Completion of the course included the following: attending eight consecutive evening training sessions that taught 11 different units, scoring a 70 percent or better on unit quizzes, scoring a 70 percent or better on a written exam; and safely demonstrating the ability to drive a tractor.

Also cooperating in presentation of the course was Finch's, Hanover; Yingling's Implements, Gettysburg; and 4-H leader Dan Wilkinson.

According to Jared Tyson, county 4-H agent, the high scoring individual was Dale Roberts, Aspers. Dale will be invited to a state tractor driving contest August 4-6 at Penn State. Others completing the course were Wayne Flickinger, Biglerville; Eugene Hune, East Berlin; Jim Prosser, Gardners; Chris Roberts, Aspers; Debbie Wilkinson, Gettysburg; Ronnie Young, Biglerville; Doug Heller, Aspers; and Rich Williams, New Oxford.

Child labor laws require 14- and 15-year-olds hired by farmers to complete the safety course. The next course session will be offered in January 1993.

Lancaster 4-H Beef Club

The Lancaster County 4-H Beef Club met Wednesday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Dwain Livingood. The club heard leader's reports on caring for steers, and also had a report on the Penn State Block and Bridle Club Judging Contest held last month.

The club received the agenda for the meetings for the rest of the year. Members with steers for the Pennsylvania Farm Show were asked to sign up. Anyone not present at the meeting should contact your leader, because all Farm Show steers must be nose printed before June 1.

For the evening program, Zoann Parker, 4-H agent, gave the club a pep talk about filling out blue forms and baby blue form scrapbooks. After that, the club saw two videos on beef quality assurance.

The next meeting will be a showmanship demonstration and practice at the Larry High residence on Wednesday, May 6 at 7 p.m.

Cowanesque FFA

The annual parent-member banquet of the Cowanesque FFA Chapter was held recently in the high school cafeteria.

A roast beef dinner was served by the cafeteria staff to the 121 parents, guests, and members.

Stacy Graves, chapter president, welcomed the group, while the chaplain, Wade Payne, had the invocation.

The awards program was conducted by the chapter officers and advisors in the school auditorium. Following the official opening ceremonies by the officers, Angie Miles introduced guests of the chapters. Greenhand pins and certificates were awarded by Susan Groover and Laurie Wildman. Chapter degree pins and certificates were presented by Angie Miles and Dennis Ackley. County degree recipients were recognized by Dawn Patterson and Rob Gilman.

Jeff Brown, a beef breeder from Port Allegany, was the speaker for the evening. He challenged the members to excel at what they want to do and always strive to do their very best. He told the younger members to continue to work at keeping their chapter on top, as it is recognized as one of the good chapters in the state. Jeff was presented with an Honorary Chapter degree by president, Stacey Graves.

Edward Heyler, retired agriculture teacher and FFA advisor from Cowanesque, presented the gold charm of the state degree to Stacey Graves, Susan Groover, Dawn Patterson, and Rob Gilman. He also recognized Mike Ackley, who had earned the state degree 20 years ago and was also the state star farmer. Mike presented the area star farmer pin to Stacey Graves.

Use Flood Warning System In Case Of Another Agnes

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — June 1992 is the twentieth anniversary of the Agnes flood which devastated the Susquehanna Basin and caused $3.2 billion in damages and costing 93 lives. It was the most destructive flood in a long history of flooding.

Unfortunately, because of current drought conditions in parts of the basin, flooding seems to be the least of our concerns. Inevitably, however, the present drought will end, and people and property in the basin will again be vulnerable to flood damages.

The Corps of Engineers, after evaluating other flood control alternatives, has concluded that improved forecast and warning systems are the best means to reduce flood damages in the Susquehanna Basin.

In response to local concerns in several parts of the basin regarding the accuracy and timeliness of flood forecasts, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC), in cooperation with federal agencies, prepared a 1985 proposal to improve the National Weather Service flood forecast and warning system in the Susquehanna Basin.

The program is expected to reduce annual flood damages in the Susquehanna Basin by about $12 million and produce $8.60 in benefits for each dollar spent.

The program includes five major elements:

- Installation of a computer system for data processing and forecast preparation at the Middle Atlantic Forecast Center (MARFC) in Harrisburg.

- Expansion and automation of the field data collection network.

- Additional staffing for full-time operation of MARFC.

- Improved weather radar data availability.

- Additional staff in Harrisburg and Williamsport, Pennsylvania, and Binghamton, New York, and installation of new weather radio transmitters in northern Pennsylvania to improve forecast dissemination.

With the exception of the weather radar and the streamgaging network, these elements have been largely completed. MARFC is now operating full time. The computer is able to collect data and prepare forecasts more rapidly. The MARFC staff continues to develop new forecast procedures using the expanded data collection network.

Since 1986, approximately $10 million has been appropriated for installation, operation, and maintenance of the improved system. However, funding needs have not been met for the last three years, which has resulted in a reduction of the number of gages and the accuracy and timeliness of forecasts.

Funding for the program has always been a congressional add-on and must be reinstated each year. According to the SRBC, The data collection network was never completed as originally designed and some of the gages were discontinued in fiscal year 1990 because of a lack of funds.

The commission has prepared a request to the SRBC's congressional delegation for $1.094 million for fiscal year 1993 to maintain the system at its present capability and restore the gaging system to the 1989 level. If the requested level of funding is not made available, further reductions in the capability of the system are likely, according to SRBC.

The commission requests that every individual and government body in the basin concerned with preventing flood damages or subject to flooding immediately contact their representative in Congress and their U.S. Senators to urge their support of the addition of $1.094 million to the federal budget, as requested by the commission.

Tire Group Earns Top Supply Position

DES MOINES, Ia.—The Firestone Agricultural Tire Division has earned two key original equipment contracts with John Deere, including selection as the exclusive 100 percent supplier for John Deere's new Augusta, Ga., facility.

The division was named the number one supplier of farm, industrial, and forestry tires for all of John Deere's North American facilities, which include manufacturing plants in East Moline, Ill.; Moline, Ill.; and Waterloo, Davenport, Des Moines, Ottumwa and Dubuque, Iowa.

Firestone brand agricultural tires will be fitted to the Deere tractors, combine harvesters, tillage tools, planters, hay equipment, cotton pickers, cultivators, loaders, excavators, wheel tractors, backhoe loaders, motor graders, and log skidders manufactured at those plants.

Deere's new plant in Augusta, which will soon come on-line, will manufacture 40 to 60 horsepower utility tractors, all of which will carry Firestone brand tractor tires.

"Our commitment to quality and continuous improvement, our ability to provide world-class products and top-notch service, and our willingness to go that extra yard were the key factors in gaining these important original equipment contracts," said Barry Kadechuk, president of the Firestone Agricultural Tire Division. "Deere has a hard-earned reputation for making outstanding equipment, and it's a tribute to our entire team, from the plant through the front office, that Firestone was selected as a top supplier for Deere."

What's Involved In Cleaning, Disinfecting Poultry Houses?

LARRY WEAVER
Customer Service Rep.
Beitzel Spraying

Editor's Note: This paper was presented at the recent Penn State Poultry Sales and Service Conference.

Maintenance on a poultry house can be very complicated and costly unless you follow some simple guidelines. Preventative maintenance is the key. Accomplishing the maintenance program in a timely manner without interfering with regular production schedules is also very important, and less costly in the long run.

A simple illustration of this concept is the family car. Regular preventative maintenance keeps the car running smoothly and provides the family with needed transportation. However, if the maintenance is neglected and the car stops running, we then have created other problems as well.

Not only do we need to have the car repaired, but now we must find other means of transportation.

This all needs to be accomplished whether it fits into our schedule or not. Now, we have the cost of the repairs, the cost of the rental car, and the rearranging of our schedules to consider. Preventative maintenance would have alerted us to any potential problems before they created such serious and costly headaches.

The same concepts apply to a preventative maintenance program for your poultry house. Regular maintenance alerts us to problems that can be corrected before they become costly. The maintenance program can be worked around your schedule, and on a regular basis.

Poultry houses are becoming more and more automated. We now have computers that regulate temperature and ventilation. However, there is not a computer that cleans and disinfects your house. This is accomplished by manual labor. The regular cleaning maintenance program will help maintain a biosecure house — one free

Management Seminars Help Increase Dairy Sales

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Dairy products are a profitability powerhouse in today's supermarkets, accounting for $19 billion in annual retail sales, and an 8 percent share of total consumer grocery spending.

Mid East United Dairy Industry Association's newest marketing workshops are utilizing the most up-to-date dairy sales principles to assist dairy case managers and store managers increase sales in the already lucrative dairy aisle.

Mid East UDIA, one of 25 member associations of the dairy farmer-funded and directed United Dairy Industry Association and its affiliates the American Dairy Association and National Dairy Council, is applying the latest research and management principles developed by Willard Bishop Consulting, Ltd., one of the country's foremost authorities on case management.

The one-day workshops are bringing retail managers back to the basics of product knowledge, and are introducing them to the latest marketing trends. The basics include dairy product information; the facts about real and imitation dairy products; marketing ideas using American Dairy Association point-of-purchase materials; and dairy case and product care.

David Hunley, Mid East UDIA director of marketing and promotions, adds that the growing number of items introduced in the dairy case annually has resulted in competition for space and for customer attention.

"The latest research shows that the way the dairy case is designed can have a significant impact on dairy case profits," said Hunley. Much of the dairy case's outstanding profit performance can be attributed to the strength of milk-based items. So it is logical to devote adequate space to a highly profitable milk-based product.

Another important seminar topic is space elasticity — the relationship between retail merchandising space and the sales that come from that space.

The space elasticity of the dairy department shows that as the department expands, significantly higher sales per customer occur. These sales translate into higher profits and provide solid justification for enlarging the refrigerated dairy department.

Hunley said that one of the most beneficial aspects of the workshops is the individualized service they provide.

He said, "We keep in mind the specific needs of each retailer when we prepare for a workshop."

A session for one chain may emphasize category management, while another may focus on product knowledge and case care.

"But we structure each seminar so the participants will walk away with better knowledge of management and how vital it is to the store's overall profit earnings," Hunley said.

Since Mid East UDIA implemented the training program in 1991, Hunley has conducted workshops for Flickingers in Meadville, PA; Geyer's Markets in Lexington, Ohio; and CWC Corporation in Findlay, Ohio.

"We really appreciated the review of the basic dairy case operations," said Don White, advertising director and perishable director for Geyer's. "But our main concern is planning for the future."

White said that his stores face the challenge of how to handle the new items and still take care of the customers who want existing products. He added that of the 385-500 items in the dairy case, only 10 percent of them are "hot items," selling 10 or more cases of product.

The other items, which move only two to three cases, create problems because they compete for space.

Mark Gephart, director of merchandising for CWC Corporation, which operates eight Great Scot stores in Fremont and Hillsboro, Ohio, said that the product knowledge and dairy department trends were very helpful.

He said, "Some people were surprised at the amount of profits possible from the dairy case based on the number of footage in the store." Gephart also said that the introduction to DPP (Direct Profit Potential) was especially informative and it is something he has been considering for a while.

DPP measures the gross profitability of a product more accurately than other performance evaluations, because it considers all of the costs involved in handling the product — manufacturing, warehousing, handling, etc.

"We're absolutely going to get more involved with it," Gephart said.

Steve Benner from Reiter Dairy, which services Great Scot, said he agreed that the dairy trends were a very integral part of the workshops. He also concurred with Don White about the competition for case space.

"We've introduced new products and had a difficult time getting shelf space," Benner said.

White summed up the general consensus of the workshop participants by adding that the session provides a better understanding of managing the products that "pay a lot of the store bills."

Mid East UDIA is rapidly building on the success of the dairy case management workshops. According to David Hunley, "Many dairy case and store managers are eager to host training sessions that will help their particular stores enhance dairy product profits."

Mid East UDIA does not charge a fee to conduct the workshops. The only expense to the stores is their time," said Hunley, "And that is a small investment for a large, on-going return."

Mid East UDIA is the dairy farmer-funded and directed promotion program serving Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and parts of West Virginia and northern Kentucky.

It implements programs that are designed to increase the sales of real, domestic dairy products and heighten the awareness of their nutritional benefits. These programs include advertising, retail and foodservice marketing, nutrition education, consumer marketing, and communications.

For more information about Mid East UDIA's dairy case management workshops call David Hunley at (614) 890-1800.

February Milk Production Up

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Milk production in Pennsylvania during February 1992 totaled 858 million pounds, 6 percent above last year's production, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

The number of milk cows in the state during the month averaged 665,000 head, down 4,000 from January, and 14,000 fewer than February 1991.

February 1992 milk production includes one additional day's production due to leap year. Production per cow averaged 1,290 pounds in February, 20 pounds less than January, but up 100 pounds from February 1991.

Milk production in the 21 states surveyed during February totaled 10.17 billion pounds, up 3 percent when compared to production during February 1991.

The number of milk cows averaged 8.27 million head, down 210,000 head from a year earlier, while production per cow averaged 1,230 pounds, 61 pounds above February of last year.

Madigan Extends ARP Sign-up

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan recently announced that farmers have until May 1 to sign up for 1992 annual commodity acreage reduction programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The announcement extends the sign up period two weeks beyond the original deadline of April 17.

"Farmers in a variety of special circumstances have told us it would be helpful to have a little more time for sign up," Madigan said. "This extension is consistent with the president's instructions to accommodate our programs to producers' needs whenever possible."

The extension will not delay receipt of advance deficiency payments, Madigan said.

New plastic bale wrapping machines which provide a virtually air-tight package for high-moisture haylage and silage.

Wrappers Provide Air-Tight Package

PELLA, Iowa — New plastic bale wrapping machines which provide a virtually air-tight package for high-moisture haylage and silage have just recently been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Company.

With the new front-loading Vermeer SW25-FL silage wrapper, you can load, wrap and unload an entire bale without leaving your tractor seat. Heavy-duty hydraulically powered loading arms lift the bale onto a turntable.

The table features adjustable bumper discs to hold the bale in place. As the bale revolves and turns on the table, 20-inch wide plastic film stretch-wraps the bale in an overlapping motion.

When the bale is completely wrapped and sealed, the turntable tilts to the rear and gently lowers the wrapped bale to the ground. An optional cut/start system is available to automatically slice the plastic film and start the wrapping sequence on the next bale. One 6,000-foot roll of plastic film handles approximately 30 bales, depending on bale size and the number of wraps used on each bale.

The Vermeer Silage Wrapper handles bales up to four feet wide and bale diameters from 52 to 60 inches. It requires just a minimum 25 hp tractor equipped with a set of auxiliary hydraulic outlets. Options include a hydraulic swing tongue and a bale counter that tracks the number of bales wrapped and displays the number of turntable revolutions.

Vermeer also offers two silage wrappers in 3-point hitch (SW25-3PT) and trailer-mounted (SW-25T) models. Both of these units have the same basic capabilities of the front-loading model without loading arms, and without the optional swing tongue and cut/start features. In addition, an optional drop mat is available to prevent film from being damaged or punctured as the bale is unloaded.

Vermeer also manufactures a companion silage baler that produces high-moisture round bales which measure 4 feet (wide) by 5-foot (diameter) and weigh up to 1,900 pounds, depending upon moisture content.

Gehl Models 4525 and 4625 skid loaders feature a tilt-back ROPS/FOPS structure to provide full and easy access to the engine and driveline for routine maintenance.

More Capacity For Skid Loaders

WEST BEND, Wis. — The new Gehl Models 4525 and 4625 offer many advantages over the models they replace, including more operating capacity, increased dump height, smoother control operation, new systems monitoring, stronger load arms, increased dump reach, lower noise levels, and enhanced operator comfort.

The Model 4525 features a 42-horsepower gas engine and a 1,250-pound SAE operating capacity.

The Model 4625 features a 43 horsepower diesel and a 1,350-pound SAE operating capacity.

Both models feature a tilt-back ROPS/FOPS structure to provide full and easy access to the engine and driveline for routine maintenance. A tip-back radiator makes it easier to clean the radiator and oil cooler.

Additionally, new monitoring instrumentation provides the operator with instant information on various engine and hydraulic functions.

For more information, contact your local Gehl dealer or write Gehl Company, 143 Water Street, West Bend, WI 53095.

AGCO Renovates Combine, Tractor Facility

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — AGCO Crop. recently completed on schedule a $2 million renovation of its Independence, Mo., facility, transforming the former combine-assembly complex into the company's main manufacturing and assembly plant for its Gleaner and White combines and its high-horsepower White Workhorse and Deutz-Allis 9100 series tractors.

As the parent company for Deutz-Allis, White and Hesston, AGCO began looking for a place to relocate its tractor line when it purchased White Tractor from Allied Products Corp. on May 31, 1991. Until mid-August, all 120 to 195 HP White and Deutz-Allis tractors had been built at the White Tractor plant in Coldwater, Ohio.

"The combine plant in Independence was the logical relocation site for the tractor assembly plant," said Robert J. Ratliff, president and CEO of AGCO. "The quality improvements we already had made to the Gleaner line, such as just-in-time inventory and machine-center manufacturing concepts, had opened up enough space to accommodate the tractor line without enlarging the facility."

"Moreover, the move will bring the same quality control and efficiency to our tractor line that we have established in our combine line. The tractor-assembly line also will share our existing support facilities and staff, which include product design, research, and an engineering lab. This will help us to respond quickly to design changes and improvements."

John Shumejda, AGCO senior vice president of operations, agrees that relocation of the tractor line to the 500,000-square-foot Independence plant means more than simply loading up the equipment, moving it more than 600 miles and adding 150 jobs.

"In an effort to improve quality, we've purchased nearly as much equipment as we moved," he said. "For example, we've added nearly 300 new tools for cab assembly alone. We know that comfort and reliability are among the most important features to a farmer who spends 10 hours or more a day in a tractor cab, so we've dedicated 15,000 square feet of floor space to provide permanent tooling for cab manufacturing. That means consistency, and consistency means quality."

Another new feature is the 500-foot-long paint line that includes a high-temperature oven that bakes a new automotive-type urethane paint finish on the chassis and frame. Because of this process, the tractors and combines manufactured in Independence will maintain their fade- and chemical-resistant finishes for many years.

"The new line also will allow us to react very quickly to dealer and customer needs," Shumejda said. "The line has been set up to build tractors and combines in a mix of both models and brands. Because of this, a customer who wants a certain model won't have to wait several weeks while we finish a production run. We can add it right on the line at any time."

We also offer a versatility in manufacturing others don't by tailoring production schedules to meet customer demands. We can play off the efficiency of our combine line and utilize our quality-trained staff where they're needed most. That helps keep the cost down for us — as well as for the customer."

Loaders Available For Tractors

Post Hole Digger Quickly Attaches To Loader Bucket

LITCHFIELD, Ill. — Work-saver, Inc. has added a new hydraulic post hole digger, the HD-14, to its fencing equipment line. The economical, front offset mounted HD-14 provides excellent visibility and can be mounted to loader bucket in less than five minutes.

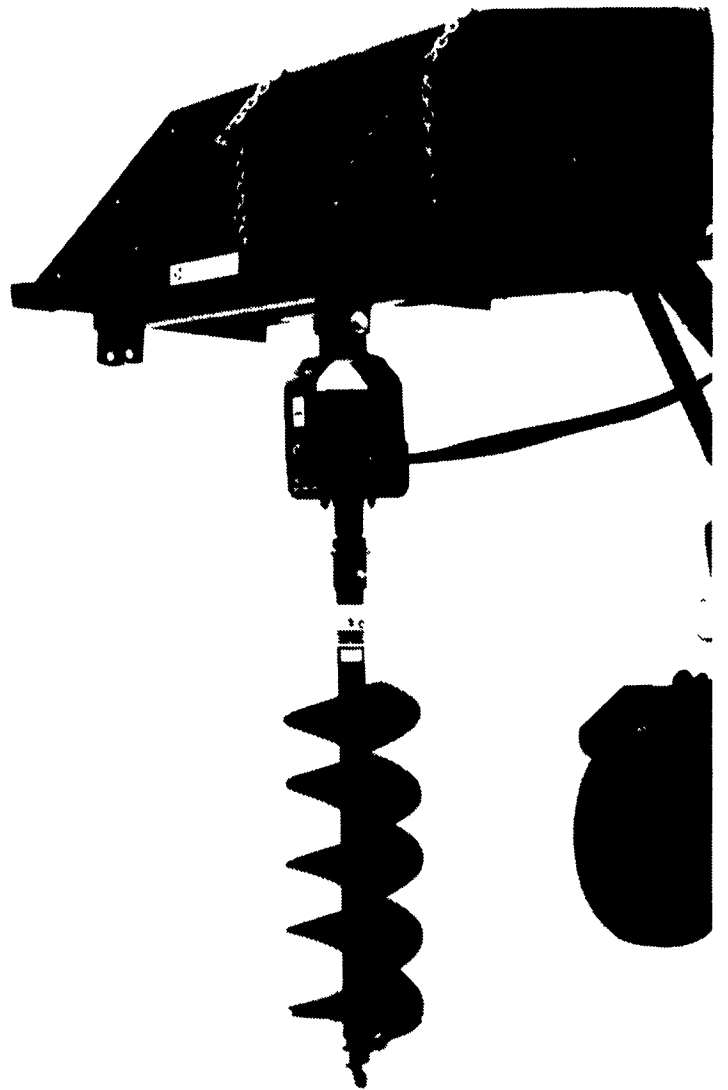

The direct drive HD-14 utilizes hydraulic down pressure from loader and provides increased digging reach and better access to difficult areas. The unit can be mounted for left or right side use. Motor and auger on the HD-14 are self-aligning and the auger can be reversed quickly. The post hole digger has no shear pins and comes with a three year limited warranty.

In addition to the HD-14, Worksaver's line of fencing equipment includes PTO-powered diggers, post drivers, and a hydraulic "T-Post" pusher. The drivers come with a 2-year limited warranty. All post hole diggers' PTO gear boxes have a five-year limited warranty. Worksaver is now offering up to a $275 discount off list price, depending on model.

For more information, contact Worksaver, Inc., P.O. Box 1000, South State Road, Litchfield, IL 62056, (217) 324-5973.

Consider Soil Temperatures When Planting

DEKALB, Ill. — Soil temperature most often determines when planting will begin. It also affects such factors as germination, growth and nutrient uptake. So corn growers need to take soil temperature into consideration when planning their planting strategy.

Dekalb Plant Genetics regional agronomist Jay Stidham said recording the soil temperature daily before planting will help growers ensure a healthy start for their crop.

"By checking each field for soil temperature, growers can determine which field to plant first," he said. "When the soil temperature reaches the 48-50 degree range consistently, it's time to plant."

After about April 20, in the Corn Belt, however, ignore soil temperature and plant as soon as soil conditions allow, Stidham said.

Crop residue keeps soils cooler and wetter longer. Early planting on no-till fields is less critical because crop cover generally minimizes moisture stress later in the season.

Planting depth provides another way to control soil moisture at seed level. He suggests planting in the warmer soil zone, generally no more than one and a half inches deep.

Stidham said many factors influence soil temperature in individual fields. Slope determines soil warming by the sun. Dark soils absorb more sunlight and warm faster than light soils. Wet soils absorb more energy so are slower to warm, he notes.

The DEKALB agronomist said response to starter fertilizer is more likely to cool soils. Slow seedling growth is not necessarily detrimental to final grain or silage yield, but it may delay maturity.

PROWL® Knocks Triazine-Resistant Weeds On Their Ear.

PROWL® herbicide handles the toughest triazine-resistant weeds in corn, like pigweed, lambsquarters and kochia. Other tough grasses and broadleaf weeds like foxtails, velvetleaf* and woolly cupgrass* are also controlled all season long with PROWL. Plus, PROWL® herbicide costs about 25% an acre less than comparable Dual¹ or Lasso² tank mixes.

Con-till or conventional till. PROWL works in any tillage system and can be applied anytime after planting, up to the four-leaf stage. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

Tank mix PROWL and get even broader-spectrum control for problem weeds like wild proso millet, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass.

This season, for proven cost-effective control of grasses and broadleaf weeds in corn, put PROWL to work in your fields.

Ohio House Approves Bill

STRONGSVILLE, Ohio — Dairy farmers scored a first round victory in their quest to secure legislation for minimum dairy prices when HB 616 passed through the Ohio House recently by a 68-29 vote.

"The first count showed bipartisan support for the future of Ohio dairy farmers," said Bill Perry, MMI manager of governmental affairs.

HB616, the Ohio Fair Dairy Pricing Bill, is enabling legislation that would allow the director of agriculture to set minimum prices for dairy products.

"Currently dairy farmers are receiving some of the lowest prices in recent history," said Riehl, MMI general manager, "and at a time when producers are trying to overcome financial strains of recent droughts and economic uncertainty."

The bill, after its House vote, goes to the Senate Agriculture Committee.

"We can expect a tough battle in the Senate, but when consumers realize that this bill means the availability of fresh, wholesome dairy products on their shelves, and probably at no increased costs to them, I believe they'll support farmers," said Bill Perry.

MMI is a 6,000 member, dairy farmer-owned cooperative encompassing an eight-state Midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. Last year MMI marketed more than 3.9 billion pounds or 453.22 million gallons of milk.

THINK 1992 BARN PAINTING SPRAY & BRUSHING

To farm building owners — Under today's farm economy it is time to reduce maintenance frustrations.

Do you remember of hearing of barn painting of approximately 75 years ago that it stayed nice longer? lasted 25 years?

Observation #1 In recent years many of these good old barn surfaces have been ruined by overcoating, poor preparation and application, lack of controlled paint placement and film thickness. The time is coming to salvage our buildings (a) Start over (b) Water blast (c) RESURFACE (d) Use solid stain to penetrate on bare spots! (e) Second coat with a breathing film thickness (f) Brush out in all directions with finest of bristles.

Really it is not as complicated as the recent changing regulations on clean milk production, or wet soils, or zoning. It is also less expensive than other barn painting experiences!

Observation #2 Colored water (latex) is less desirable for farm buildings. There is a long list of reasons for this.

Observation #3 Today's painted metal siding and roofing has a remarkably short life. Bad alloy or metal. There might be another list of reasons for this. To save it at reasonable coating cost - timing is important.

Observation #4 Today's wood selection for siding etc. is also poor. How about recycling building material?

MASTER MIX SILO-BOOSTER

Why should you use Master Mix SILO BOOSTER instead of another product? SILO-BOOSTER has been proven in 25 years of on-farm use, as well as in continuous university research. With each new discovery in silage science, we have improved the original formula. Today's SILO-BOOSTER gives the most effective silage inoculant yet developed.

Dry matter recovery data from these conventional silos demonstrates a 6.3% difference in feedable alfalfa silage. For each 100 tons of silage, there would be an additional 6.3 tons of silage available for feeding. This is equivalent to 3.5 tons of 90% dry matter hay worth approximately $350.00. This is a $3.50 return for each $1.00 investment in SILO BOOSTER from a reduction in fermentation losses alone.

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.

MYCOBACTERIOSIS IN SWINE

Mycobacteriosis, also called tuberculosis, is found in about 0.4 percent of all hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection and probably costs the swine industry between $5.1 and $6.3 million annually.

This is not a large amount compared to losses from other swine diseases. Although there are relatively few infected herds, the economic losses can be devastating to those producers that have the disease in their herds.

Mycobacteriosis in pigs bears almost no resemblance to the disease in cattle or humans. The disease in pigs has no apparent effect on the health of the animal. Apparently it cannot be transmitted to man, either by direct contact or by eating pork products.

Lack of transmission of the disease from pigs to man cannot be proven, however. Thus, meat inspection regulations formulated in 1972 call for special handling of carcasses in which evidence of mycobacteriosis is found.

Control of mycobacteriosis in swine is difficult because no vaccine is available, and the preventive use of drugs or antibiotics in feeds is either illegal or of unknown value. Preventing the disease in noninfected herds is more effective than trying to eliminate the disease from infected herds.

It is important not to mix swine and poultry production activities on the same farm if you're concerned about mycobacteriosis. Feeding uncooked garbage, unpasteurized milk, or other materials that might contain viable mycobacteria to pigs must be avoided.

Breeding stock should be purchased from tuberculosis-free herds and efforts should be made to prevent contact between hogs and wild birds. Contact your veterinarian for additional information in regards to mycobacteriosis.

Culling Sows

The decision to cull sows should be made carefully. Ideally, it should be based on records and on common sense. Sows that are injured or have severe feet and leg problems should be shipped without hesitation. And sows that have had three poor litters are probably losing money for the operation.

If sows aren't cycling, look at their condition. Sows in very thin flesh are slow to return to heat, especially first litter sows. One month is a reasonable amount of time to get them back into satisfactory condition. If they still fail to come into heat, they should be sold.

For sows that cycle, but don't settle, most producers will breed them twice before culling. Sows that have had MMA won't necessarily have it again and sows that have had Lepto or Parvo usually won't be affected the next litter either. Culling on the basis of these diseases should be done with caution.

Gilts that didn't perform well in the farrowing house generally should be given another chance. The repeatability for litter size is very small, so one litter doesn't tell you much about a gilt's potential.

Remember — the more you cull, the younger your sow herd becomes. Gilts on the average will have a production level that's about 90 percent that of sows. So any improvements you try to make in litter size by heavy culling will be hampered by a higher percentage of gilt litters. Perhaps the safest approach is keeping sows for at least three litters. That gives you plenty of time to evaluate each sow, and you're not relying heavily on gilts for pig production.

Pit Ventilation: Size It Right

Dan McFarland, Penn State multicounty ag engineer, offers the following reminder of proper sizing of pit ventilation systems in swine confinement buildings.

The purpose of pit ventilation is to reduce gases and odors caused by the collection and storage of manure and urine beneath confined animals. These gases can cause health concerns and reduce production efficiency. Pit ventilation should supply at least the cold weather ventilation rate but no more than the mild weather rate.

One method of drawing manure gases from the pit area is by using ducts connected to exhaust fans. Strategically placed holes allow gases to be drawn into the pipe uniformly along the length.

Rigid plastic pipes are commonly used as these ducts. Designed properly, these systems can work well. However, like any ventilation system, there are limitations. Exceeding the limitations may reduce system performance and effectiveness.

Midwest plan service (MWPS) suggests that the maximum airflow for ducts should be 800-1,000 cubic feet per minute (CFM) per cross-section area. Table 1 shows the approximate cross-section area and suggested airflow rate for various pipe diameters.

Notice that a 10-inch diameter pipe will provide up to approximately 600 CFM of airflow. Even if a 1,000 CFM fan is attached to the pipe, the system is limited to 600 CFM because of the resistance created by the pipe.

As a result, the fan will "work" harder, use more power, and produce less than expected performance.

A better alternative might be to direct two 10-inch diameter pipes to a common "fan house" containing a single fan. Based on the suggested airflow rates, this system could have a capacity of 1,200 CFM.

Table 1: Suggested air flow rates for various pipe sizes

Tube Diameter, In	Cross-Section Area, sq. In	Airflow CFM
6	0.196	190-210
8	0.349	350-400
10	0.545	550-600
12	0.785	750-850
15	1.227	1,000-1,300
18	1.767	1,300-1,800
24	3.142	2,500-3,200

Planning Your Estate Transfer

Alan Strock, Penn State multicounty farm management agent, reminds swine producers about taking care of your estate plan.

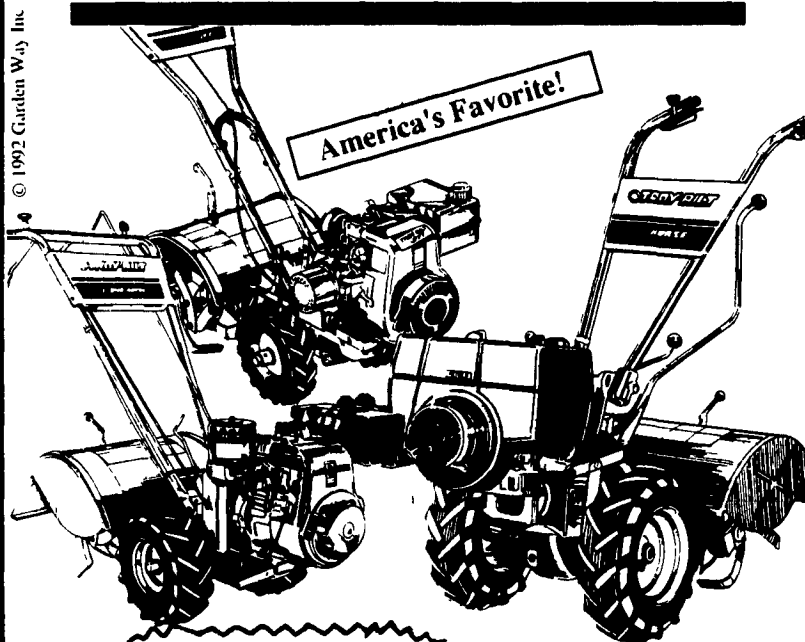

Estate planning involves many once-in-a-lifetime decisions. It is not merely writing a will. It involves many complex issues, feelings, and emotions, let alone dealing with one's own humanity.

Unfortunately, it usually is not at the top of one's "to do" list either. The last task of being a top-notch manager is getting the busi-

BRH RO-CROP CULTIVATOR

The heart of the BRH Ro-Crop is Brillion's No-Wobble Parallel Linkage. Heavy duty is an understatement, the linkage for each gang weighs over 80 pounds. Strength where it's needed, a Brillion tradition. Heavy duty straight edge shanks allow high-speed tillage without throwing dirt or residue.

Underframe shank clearance of 25" allows you more days to cultivate your crops before they get too tall.

The extra long gang frame offers excellent trash clearance, allowing you to handle the heavy residues left from minimum tillage practices. The rugged yoke mounted gauge wheel offers easy depth adjustment. Simply move the pin to the proper hole and you are ready to cultivate.

BRS CULTIVATOR

The BRILLION "S" line cultivator (model BRS) four-way tooth movement is designed for high speed cultivation, especially in conjunction with chemical weed control. The "S" lines also mulch the soil and level the ground for easier harvesting. Available in rigid and folding models for four to 12 rows.

ness, intact, to the next generation, or whoever you want to carry on. If we die without "putting our financial house in order," added chaos, family squabbles, forced sales of assets, and increased taxes often result.

Establishing personal and family goals are a prerequisite to estate planning. Clearly defined goals and objectives will greatly simplify the estate planning process. Let's look at a few of the goals and obstacles that your estate plan should address and maneuver around.

- Provide security for retiring parents and surviving family members.

- Treating the non farm and farm children equally and/or fairly.

- Providing guardianship for minor and/or handicapped children. Name the guardians and provide funds for the care and education of your children. Also appoint the executor to settle your estate and trustee(s) to manage your trust(s).

- Preserve the family wealth. Turn the total business over to family members. Specific goals must be set and steps taken to avoid a family feud. This usually requires detailed planning including a will, additional agreements, a planned gifting program, trusts, insurance, family mortgages and installment sales, etc.

- Provide for the desired distribution of all assets, especially family heirlooms, antiques, and other specific gifts or bequests. The will must include details on who gets what.

- Provide revenue for your favorite church, charitable organization(s), or other humanitarian institution(s).

- Provide liquidity (cash) in the estate to pay costs. This can prevent a forced sale of assets in order to pay settlement costs, including taxes. Life insurance is commonly used to provide needed cash.

- Minimize estate settlement costs. In estates that exceed $600,000, tax considerations become more important. Most strategies that reduce taxes also require yielding control of assets.

Once you have prioritized these goals, you should also take an inventory of your personal and business belongings and debts. With your inventory and goals in hand, you are now prepared to take action with your estate planning team which may include some or all of the following: family members, attorney, and tax accountant.

Alan Strock is a farm management specialist serving Chester and Lancaster counties for Penn State Cooperative Extension. You may contact him at either the Chester or Lancaster County extension office.

"Producers who attend the seminars during Expo will be able to draw on the knowledge of more than 20 pork industry leaders and experts," said Beth Lautner, D.V.M., the National Pork Producers Council's director of producer education. "These seminars will provide producers with the ideas, knowledge, and tools they will need to position their operations as profitable competitors in the pork industry of the next century."

The seminars, sponsored by SmithKline Beecham, will cover the following topics:

- Environmental Management will be the theme Friday, June 5 from 1 a.m.-noon. University researchers will explain all aspects of the environmental issue, including the advantages and disadvantages of different types of waste management systems available to producers. Other topics will encompass manure disposal and application techniques, improving building environments for people and pigs, and an overview of environmental regulations.

- "Maximizing Return for Lean" will be the theme for the 1 p.m.-4 p.m. seminar on Friday. Industry and university experts will discuss how producers can produce hogs that consistently receive packer premiums. Issues to be explored will be the selection of breeding stock, feeding for lean gain, and marketing lean and meat quality.

- The Saturday, June 6 seminars, sponsored by the Farm Progress Company/"The Hog Producer", focus on health strategies for the 1990s. Seminars by veterinarians, producers, and university researchers will run every half hour throughout the day from 9 a.m.-noon and from 12:30 p.m.-4 p.m. Topics to be covered include an update on the swine infertility and respiratory syndrome, an update on drug availability, protecting the health of the nation's swine industry, making herd health decisions, utilizing all-in/all-out production methods, enhancing profits with Medicated early weaning and multisite production, when to repopulate, and implementing a repopulation plan.

- The speakers at the seminars on Sunday, June 7 will concentrate on alternative health techniques. From 9 a.m.-11 a.m., a veterinarian will conduct a caesarean section demonstration which will be sponsored by the National SPF Accredited Association. A producer panel, sponsored by Swine Genetics International and International Boar Semen, will discuss artificial insemination from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. on Sunday. The seminar schedule will conclude with a panel discussion entitled "Tips to Take Home" from top industry producers. Each producer will detail changes they have made to position themselves for the future.

Useful Pork Information At Expo

Horse Farms Open Doors To Public

TRENTON, N.J. — Horse farms throughout the Garden State have invited the general public to open houses during June, the Month of the Horse, to highlight the state's animal.

To celebrate the Month of the Horse, special events are planned throughout the state and the public is invited to see some of the beautiful farms and animals that are contributing to this significant industry.

More than 60,000 racing and pleasure horses are stabled in farms covering approximately 120,000 acres in New Jersey. More than 60 different breeds of horses can be found within the environs of the state.

According to Agriculture Secretary Art Brown, the horse industry is a significant branch of agriculture. Its contribution to the labor market, recreation, and allied services makes it a billion-dollar industry.

THE EGG AND THE MODERN FOOD SUPPLY

Alan McConnell
Poultry Products
Extension Aide Dept. of Food Science

Did you ever stop to think about the relative ease with which we purchase food in this country? Vast variety, economical, convenient — we take these things for granted these days, and we can be thankful for such a privilege. But it hasn't always been so, and it still isn't in the vast majority of the world.

Consider the egg. Most of us pick up a dozen or so every week or two as we need them. They are always there, in the refrigerated dairy case, right next to the milk and cheese that are always there, too. We would be amazed if they weren't, maybe even a bit perturbed. That's why I was fascinated to read about egg "preservation" recently. After all, why

Well, as with most of our food supply, it has only been within very recent history that eggs have been widely available to virtually everyone all the time, with little thought or concern about where they were coming from or how to get them. Many of our parents, grandparents or great grandparents, however, probably knew some way of preserving eggs, and had to without the convenience of modern handling, refrigeration, and distribution.

Thus, the rest of this article is a brief review of the art of egg preservation. It is reproduced from the "Eggyclopedia" by permission of the American Egg Board.

Refrigeration, drying, or freezing are the best ways of preserving egg quality. Fresh eggs are so readily available that long storage periods are rarely necessary. However, centuries before modern methods of egg production, transportation and refrigeration became known, man did his ingenious best to preserve the egg intact.

• The ancient Chinese stored eggs up to several years by immersion in a variety of such imaginative mixtures as salt and wet clay; cooked rice, salt, and lime; or salt and wood ashes mixed with a tea infusion. Although the Chinese ate them with no ill effects that we know of, the eggs thus treated bore little similarity to fresh eggs, some exhibiting greenish-gray yolks and albumen resembling brown jelly.

• Immersion in different liquids too numerous to mention was explored. Lime water was a favorite in the 18th century. During the early 20th century, water glass was used with considerable success. Water glass, a solution of sodium silicate, did not penetrate the eggshell, imparted no odor or taste to the eggs, and was considered to have somewhat antiseptic properties. However, it did a rather poor job at relatively high storage temperatures.

• Dry packing in various substances ranging from bran to wood ashes was used occasionally, but costs of transporting the excess weight of the packing material far exceeded the dubious advantages.

• In an attempt to seal the shell to prevent loss of moisture and carbon dioxide, a great variety of materials, including cactus juice, soap, and shellac, were investigated with varying degrees of success. The only coating considered fairly efficient was oil. The practice of oiling — spraying a thin film of odorless, tasteless mineral oil on eggs before cartoning — is used today with many commercially-packed eggs. The oil replaces the natural "bloom" or cuticle layer on the outer surface of the shell which is removed during washing.

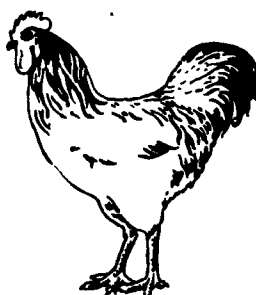

• Immersion of the egg for a short time in boiling water to coagulate a thin film of albumen immediately beneath the shell membrane was rather extensively practiced by housewives of the late 19th century.

• During the first half of the 20th century, storing eggs in refrigerated warehouses was a common practice. Commercial cold storage of eggs began in the U.S. in 1890. Because egg production was then seasonal, cold storage could hold the spring and summer surplus for release during periods of relative scarcity in autumn and winter, thus avoiding drastic price fluctuations. Preservation was later improved with the introduction of carbon dioxide into the cold storage atmosphere.

Modern breeding and flock management have virtually eliminated seasonal differences in egg production so that long-term cold storage is no longer necessary nor even practical. Thanks to rapid handling methods and efficient transportation, most eggs reach the buyer within 36 hours.

Gone are the days when an egg, and many other foods for that matter, had to be painstakingly preserved by the home consumer. The next time you are casually browsing the aisles of your local grocery store, consider the egg, and consider what has gone before.

Alfalfa Program Honors Producers

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Allen Baker has been selected by the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council as the outstanding alfalfa producer for the Northeast region for its 1992 Alfalfa Awards Program.

The selection was announced by Council President John Lyons, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, at the 22nd National Alfalfa Symposium held recently in Roanoke, Va.

The objectives of the Alfalfa Awards Program are:

- Recognize excellence among producers in the production and utilization of alfalfa
- Recognize excellence in alfalfa promotion, research, and development and education

- Recognize individuals, groups, or organizations who have made special contributions to the alfalfa industry

- Promote and publicize alfalfa for its many merits in animal agriculture and as a profit crop.

Four categories were considered for awards: Outstanding Alfalfa Producer awards from four sections of the United States, Alfalfa Extension Award for those engaged in teaching or extension at either the university or county level, Alfalfa Industry Award for individuals employed in various aspects of private industry, and Alfalfa Research Award for workers engaged in any area of alfalfa research.

Allen Baker, Outstanding Alfalfa Producer, Northeastern region, is the owner and operator of Allenor Holstein Farms in Bedford County. Allenor Farms consists of 280 head of Holstein cows, calves, and heifers which obtain the majority of their feed from the crops produced on the 600-acre farm.

Baker believes in the use of alfalfa as the backbone for his dairy nutritional and forage program. "It is a complete feed and complements corn silage and high moisture shelled corn very well," he said.

He recently increased his acreage of pure alfalfa from 200 to 250 acres. During his years of involvement with the Pennsylvania alfalfa growers program, Baker's yields sometimes exceeded 10 tons per acre on non-irrigated acres.

Other winners include:

Alfalfa Research Award: Dr. Donald K. Barnes, USDA-ARS Research Geneticist and Adjunct Professor, University of Minnesota, St. Paul.

Alfalfa Extension Award: Dr. R. Robert Romanko, Professor and Crop Management Specialist, SW Idaho Research and Extension Center, Parma, Idaho.

Alfalfa Industry Award: Dr. Jim B. Moutrey, Alfalfa Breeder and Director of Forage Research for the Alfalfa Business Unit, Agri-Pro Biosciences, Ames, Iowa.

Outstanding Alfalfa Producer - Northeast Region: Allen Baker, Allenor Holstein Farms, Bedford, Pa.

Outstanding Alfalfa Producer - Southern Region: Larry Shirley, Glasgow, Ky.

Outstanding Alfalfa Producer - Western Region: Jerry Fanning, Artesia, N.M.

Outstanding Alfalfa Producer - North Central Region: Edwin Trendly, Edoris Farms, Stonecreek, Ohio.

Allen Baker of Bedford, right, receives a plaque as the Outstanding Alfalfa Producer for the Northeast region for the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council's 1992 Alfalfa Awards Program. The presentation was made by John Lyons, president of the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council.

Speaker Appoints Representative

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Speaker of the Pennsylvania House Robert W. O'Donnell recently appointed Samuel W. Morris, former state representative from the 155th district, to the state Agriculture Preservation Board.

Morris, who represented parts of Chester County for 18 years, served as the chairman of the House Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee from 1983 until 1990.

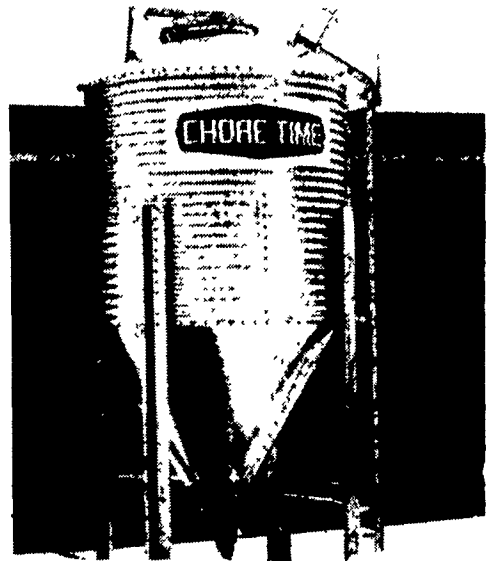

"Sam Morris has distinguished himself over the years as a tireless advocate of farmers and agricultural preservation throughout Pennsylvania," O'Donnell said. "I know he will bring this same dedication to excellence to the Agriculture Preservation Board."

Morris was the prime sponsor of legislation that created the country's largest farmland preservation program, designed to preserve agriculture with a $100 million bond issue for the purchase of open space easements on farmland. The legislation also provides for the State Agriculture Preservation Board to administer this program at the state level.

Previously, Morris had sponsored legislation creating agricultural security areas to protect farming activities and encourage local governments to do likewise.

Morris, a World War II veteran, has operated a dairy farm since 1946 and still lives on the farm in South Coventry, Chester County. He will serve a four-year term on the board.

Turf Industry A Tougher Field

MONROEVILLE (Allegheny Co.) — Managing landscapes, lawns, and golf courses is becoming increasingly difficult because of higher customer expectations and environmental concerns, report participants in the 1992 Western Pennsylvania Turf Conference and Trade Show.

Sponsored by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council, the event was designed to provide research results and display new maintenance equipment to more than 1,000 turf care professionals from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

"In the past, all a turf manager had to know was a little bit about fertilizer and how to grow grass," said Paul Brandon, district sales manager for Ryan and Cushman Turf Equipment in Exton, Pa. "But that's all different now. Golf course superintendents and landscapers are in a much more difficult position.

"For example, many golfers today watch a tournament on TV every week and see the pros play under ideal course conditions," said Brandon, a former superintendent of the Hershey-Pocono golf resort. "The large maintenance crews on pro-circuit golf courses have worked for years to get them to look that way. Local golfers don't realize that. They expect their courses to have shorter turf on fairways and faster greens.

"But there's only so much strain you can put on the turf, and the superintendents have to juggle between what the land can take and what they can do for the customers," he said. "These types of expectations, combined with environmental regulations, have put a lot of pressure on the industry."

"Some golfers prefer faster greens because of the increased challenge and truer putting surface," said George Hamilton, coordinator of Penn State's two-year turfgrass certification program.

"For example, the Oakmont Country Club in Pittsburgh may post all of its greens' speeds outside the clubhouse," Hamilton said. "When the golfers come back from Oakmont to play at their local course, they ask the superintendent, 'How fast are our greens? Why can't you make them 12 feet like Oakmont?' They don't realize how much money, time, and personnel it takes to get a course to respond that way."

Hamilton said that a green's speed is measured by allowing a golf ball to roll off a ramp from a constant height onto the putting surface. The resulting 'speed' is expressed by measuring the distance in feet that the ball has rolled on the green before stopping.

Turf equipment and product manufacturers are attempting to fulfill higher customer expectations by providing turf managers with more efficient machinery and environmentally safe pesticide, weed killer, and fertilizer, said Brandon.

"Golf course superintendents don't want their equipment breaking down right in the middle of getting ready for local tournaments," he said. "The equipment needs to be easy to use, work fast, and be gentle on the turf. And if it breaks for some reason, we need to be there right away to fix it.

"Besides providing the best equipment possible, the industry has to try and give managers chemical and natural turf treatments that kill destructive bugs and diseases but comply with environmental regulations," he said. "Sales representatives and superintendents have to have a relationship based on mutual understanding and trust."

Sales representatives in the industry succeed through a technical understanding of turf manager needs, rather than the ability to persuade customers, said Colin Boyd, president of Boyd Turf Industries, New Wilmington, Pa.

The company, which sells perennial sod to golf courses throughout the Northeast, looks for sales representatives who have either graduated with a bachelor's degree in turfgrass science or agronomy, or who have been certified through an accredited two-year program, such as Penn State's turfgrass short course.

"People who sell for us have to be able to speak the same language as our customers," he said. "It's a matter of trust. If you can't empathize with the buyers and genuinely help them accomplish their goals, then you'll never succeed in this business."

How do benefits from organic farming methods keep your yields high? Or increase them?

Erth-Rite is composted soil conditioner made from a scientific blend of animal, mineral, plant and marine products. These ingredients, collected from around the world for their farming quality and purity, provide all the basic nutrients your plants need for immediate growth.

For long term benefit, Erth-Rite fertilizers are packed full of extremely beneficial living bacteria as a result of our composting process. When applied to your fields, these bacteria release minerals and trace elements, fix nitrogen from the air, and hold nutrients in the soil where plants can use them for months.

Measurable benefits

Farmers who use the Erth-Rite program report:

- Higher nutrition levels in animal feed. Reduces the need for costly supplements.
- Healthier animals and a reduction in vet bills.
- Plants withstand the effects of drought. Last year, in counties of Pennsylvania that were declared a disaster area because of drought, Erth-Rite farmers reported normal yields.
- And when you use Erth-Rite organic fertilizer you don't have to worry about personal safety and liability issues because the product is natural and 100% safe.

Excellent results

In the past, farmers have been concerned that if they switch to organic farming methods their crops will not yield as much.

The organic facts,
changing attitudes.

Rest easy. Farmers around the county and across the country have seen that crops grown with Erth-Rite have yields equal to crops grown in chemical fertilizer. In fact, many farmers have reported increases in yield.

Ask the experts

At Erth-Rite, we have the products you've been looking for and the know-how to help you farm successfully with organic fertilizers. And we've been helping farmers for over 30 years. When you call, you'll find we are a personable and well organized company ready to assist you.

Seminars—every winter we offer a soils class that shows you how to run a successful organic program and what you can expect in crop improvements. Give us a call to reserve a seat.

Now is the time to try Erth-Rite

We don't expect you to believe everything you read and make a 100% change over night. But we do want you to give us a try—a one-field test plot. You'll see for yourself that organic farming with Erth-Rite produces excellent results. So talk to us about planning for this year or next.

We'll need the results of a soil test. For your convenience we have our own lab, but we'll be happy to work with any other scientific analysis.

We have bins and spreaders for rent and we also do custom spreading. Give us a call for more information and the name of your nearest dealer. Erth-Rite, Inc., R.D. #1, Gap, PA 17527 717-442-4171 or 1-800-332-4171

Automated Irrigation Protects Fruit, Saves Water

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State researchers have developed a computerized, automated irrigation system that protects fruit from temperature extremes and uses up to 75 percent less water.

"Fruits that bloom early, such as strawberries, are particularly susceptible to cold and heat stress," said Dr. Barbara Goulart, assistant professor of pomology. "Sprinkling crops is a simple way to bring the fruit to a safer temperature and protect it from damage."

Most growers now use manual irrigation to protect fruit from frost, a system that wastes large quantities of water. "When the temperature drops below 34 degrees F, growers turn on the water and leave it on all night until the temperature warms," said Goulart. "Research has shown that this much water isn't needed."

The automated irrigation system was developed by Goulart and Penn State agricultural engineers Paul Heinemann, Timothy Stombaugh, and Charles Morrow. It is a more precise application method that helps save water and energy. The system also can be used to apply pesticides and fertilizers directly on plants, reducing drift and overall chemical use.

Overwatering promotes root suffocation and plant disease and makes fields so muddy that growers can't drive tractors through the plant rows, said Goulart. The automated system contributes to better plant health and gives growers better access to their crops.

The computerized system is connected to sensors in the field which monitor wind speed, temperature, and relative humidity. By constantly checking environmental conditions, the system determines when the sprinklers need to be turned on, how much water to apply, and when to stop watering.

In the spring of 1990, two frosts occurred. Crops managed by the system showed only 1 to 2 percent injury, while an unsprinkled field showed about 50 percent damage. The system used about 50 percent less water than a manually controlled system, because it turned the water on and off as needed rather than supplying it continuously. Tests in 1991 showed that the system could reduce water use by up to 75 percent.

Automated irrigation also proved effective for cooling crops. "Berry size increases when plants are sprinkled, as compared to watering the soil," said Goulart. "The fruit also may have a longer shelf life."

"Growers who use irrigation for evaporative cooling might be able to lower chemical use because irrigation systems can deliver fertilizers and pesticides directly to plants," she said.

"Injecting chemicals through sprinklers reduces drift and allows growers to apply chemicals under field conditions that may not be accessible to tractors and sprayers."

Although the system was tested on strawberries, the research has revealed useful information for apple and stone fruit growers who commonly rely on burning fossil fuels to protect their crops from frost. Further research will focus on the use of this unique irrigation system to grow tree fruit.

Expanded Tree Fruit Guide Available

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1992-1993 edition of the "Tree Fruit Production Guide" is available from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

This comprehensive guide offers strategies for establishing and maintaining orchards. The manual stresses integrated pest management — the use of all possible control strategies for pests. It offers specific suggestions for pesticide use on tree fruits and discusses environmental monitoring and frost protection.

"The guide has been expanded to provide more extensive information on cultural production methods and strategies for controlling pests," said Dr. Robert Crasswell, associate professor of tree fruit. "It discusses recent changes in fungicide availability and increasing resistance of insects and fungi to pesticides."

A section on harvest and post-harvest handling incorporates new information on controlled-

The farm management section presents sample budgets for land preparation, orchard planting, and production of fresh-market apples, processing apples, and fresh-market peaches.

State and federal laws on hiring, wages and withholding, and worker and community safety also are discussed. The guide, indexed for fast and easy retrieval of information, is available for $12 from the Publications Distribution Center, Penn State, 112 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-6713.

4-H Open Horse Show Set

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — This year's Maryland 4-H dairy bowl knowledge contest attracted the most participants in recent memory. But when it was over, Carroll County teams had captured most of the honors for the third consecutive year.

The contest was held recently in the new Phase I addition to the Animal Sciences Building at the University of Maryland College Park.

Sixteen teams from six Maryland counties competed. More than 45 youth were on hand, matching knowledge about cows and dairy farm management.

Separate categories were provided, based on contestants' ages — junior (8 to 10 years); interme-date (11 to 13) and senior (14 to 19).

Carroll County 4-H teams won both the senior and intermediate contests. The winning intermediate-age team won the junior contest in 1991.

Loretta Wright of Westminster again coached the Carroll County teams. Wright had assistance this year from two nephews, Tom and Sam Muller, also of Westminster. Tom and Sam were members of last year's Carroll County state champion senior 4-H dairy bowl team.

Members of this year's winning senior team were Jacob Thomas of Keymar, team captain; Mary Ellen Seraydian of Taneytown; Jeffrey Fritz of New Windsor; and Kelly

Myers, also of New Windsor.

Sisters of two senior team members were included on Carroll County's state champion intermediate 4-H dairy bowl team. The roster included Kristin Myers of New Windsor, captain; Kelly Melville of Carrollton; Jessica Fritz of New Windsor; and Jeffrey Sutton, also of New Windsor.

A Harford County team in its first state 4-H dairy bowl competition won the junior contest. Team members were Barbara Schenning of Creswell, captain; Dan Magness of Bradenbaugh; Harold Smith III of Blackhorse; and Emily Rutledge of Madonna.

Barbara Schenning was high individual in the junior contest. Robert Sigler of Oxford, Pa., won the intermediate crown. A former Frederick County 4-H member from Middletown, Bob now lives in southeast Pennsylvania and participates in Cecil County 4-H events.

April Hall of Church Hill (Queen Anne's County) was top individual in the senior competition. Others in the top 10 senior placings were all from central Maryland.

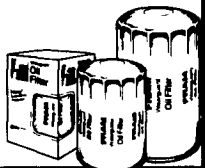

Katie Norman and Mark Iager, both of Fulton (Howard County), placed second and seventh, respectively. David McKeever of Laytonsville (Montgomery County) was third.

The top 10 seniors are eligible to compete for an opportunity to represent Maryland in the National 4-H Invitational Dairy Quiz Bowl Contest on November 7 during the North American International Livestock Exposition at Louisville, Ky.

Names of the five persons selected will be announced following tryouts in early September, according to Mark A. Varner, the Maryland team coach. Varner is a dairy science specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources, University of Maryland System.

A Satisfied Customer...

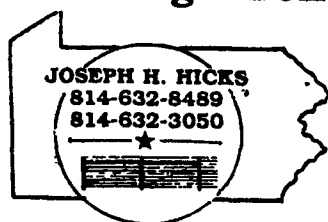

JOHN R. RODGERS, of Belleville had three styles of fencing installed totaling a mile on his farm.
John offers these comments. "I looked at others fencers and determined that Beaver Fence Systems had the people that could do a quality job and a quality fence to keep the cattle where I want them. The flexibility of the fence gives me full utilization of the land with maximum efficiency. The job was completed in two days including a barnyard fence, plus 6 and 4 wire pasture fencing."

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

The Eby Wrangler...
★ Better Looking ★ Better Built ★ Better Value

The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wrangler 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
  - Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
  - Aerodynamic, attractive design
  - Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
  - 2-year warranty
- Specifications
- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
  - 7' Width
  - 6'6" Inside height

hillsboro flatbed trailer with flip-up beaver tail

24 Foot Length Shown

28 Foot Length Shown

Optional deck over the neck is 7 1/2' x 8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads.

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer.

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flat-bed value.

75th LILE Promotes Animal Husbandry

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — In commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the Little International Livestock Exposition, the Penn State Block and Bridle Club kicked off their celebration April 10.

Students and alumni enjoyed a Stockmans Club-sponsored luncheon, and alumni and senior club members attended the annual Stockmans banquet Friday evening.

Bright and early Saturday morning, Block and Bridle Club members put the final touches to their animals as family, friends, and alumni filled the arena for this year's special event.

At 8 a.m., club members led their animals into the ring to demonstrate their showmanship and fitting talents, signaling the beginning of this year's competition.

During a brief break for judges and competitors, alumni provided entertainment by demonstrating their own showmanship techniques on a class of weanling pigs.

The break was followed by the champion showmanship round where showmanship champions from each species were given the opportunity to exhibit their overall ability by showing a horse, a heifer, a pig, and a sheep.

While competitors thoughts were focused on the task at hand, some of the changes in competitions, as well as the consistencies became apparent.

For those alumni who watched the youth show, the thrill of having made it to the final round was not changed. However, showing draft horses rather than the lightweight horses shown this year was different.

Other changes over the past 75 years were also apparent. The LILE had been held in the Pavilion (located across from the Creamery). Also, the styles of showmanship and the trends in animal production have changed.

The Little International competition and the Block and Bridle Club share a very rich history since the show's beginning in 1917 and the club's birth in 1924. But despite changes over the years, their purpose and objectives have remained the same — to promote a higher scholastic standard among animal husbandry students; to promote animal husbandry, especially all phases of student animal husbandry work in colleges and universities; and to foster a closer relationship between students, faculty and others engaged in animal husbandry.

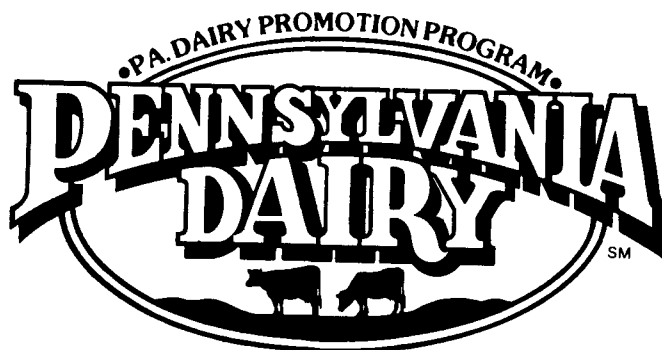

It is the dedication and enthusiasm of the club members and advisors that provide the driving force behind the success of this annual event, and this year's 75th Little International was deemed a great success.

It was a chance for competitors to gain knowledge and experience, for alumni to become reacquainted with old friends, and for parents to observe their special student's endeavors with pride.

Extreme Temperature Fluctuation May Require Change

HERBERT C. JORDAN

Associate Professor Poultry Science

Penn State University

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Home-mix feed managers of poultry, rabbits or game birds should consider some different feed alternatives in case of extreme temperature fluctuations.

Through responding to calls on poor performance in poultry, rabbits and game birds, it appears fluctuations in outside temperature as much as 40 degrees in one day can cause birds to go off feed, overeat, get sick, fail to drink enough water or sit and fail to exercise. Some hens stop laying for no apparent reason.

• If outside temperature varies more than 20 degrees in a 24-hour period, the flock of birds in an insulated building or open shed may show significant variation in performance.

Low performance may be costly.

• Low winter temperatures may accompany wide daily variation in outside temperature. If this happens, consider one of the following after consulting your nutritionist or poultry expert.

Monitor feed consumption per bird per day and encourage it if consumption gets low in cold weather.

Cod liver oil can be laid in one continuous thin line on the out-bound chain of the feeder. Place fresh cod liver oil on top of fresh feed at the rate of one pint per 100 pounds of feed consumed for one treatment or more per week.

Cod liver oil should increase appetite, improve eggshell quality, improve egg number in some cases and, in breeder flocks, fertility and hatchability may increase.

Do not mix cod liver oil in feed before storage as it can become rancid. Rancid feed can damage performance.

• Beef tallow which is frozen then run through a hammer mill carefully can be added in proportion of 1/4 - to 1-percent tallow by weight to the final mixed feed of layers or breeders that are not performing may be an answer.

Be careful with any animal fat — it can cause physical problems with feed, become rancid, or gum-up the feed mixing or conveyance system. If animal fat is fed, the feed bin and all systems need cleaned every few days or as needed.

Allow birds to clean up all feed every day or two if possible.

• High quality fresh fishmeal can be added to a final ration at the rate of 1/2 to 1 percent by weight. Know the source of meal and have the vendor tell you what the microbe and harmful chemical level is.

Fishmeal needs to be mixed throughout the entire ration just like any ingredient.

• Save highest quality corn until the coldest part of winter. Jan. 22 may reach temperatures in Pennsylvania below zero, so the low temperature inside any house at 4 a.m. may be low enough to require extra heat from feed in birds. This is true in high wind conditions.

If corn is low test weight or of poor quality do not feed it. If no other corn is available supplement poor corn with fat or oil or some other source of quality energy.

Fermentable carbohydrates, such as corn, should not be fed in large quantities to rabbits.

• Since we see small gizzards in many laying birds that perform poorly, it may be useful to have granite grit laid on top of feed twice a month at the rate of 1- to 4-pounds per 100 birds. Insoluble grit along with oats in the ration causes gizzard to be normal.

Normal gizzards help keep birds healthy and strong. Oats may replace corn at 200 pounds per ton, as long as feed is made to have adequate energy with fat or oil.

• Vitamin-mineral-electrolytes

(VME) can be toxic if overfed, so mix VME in water at half strength and make it available to the flock only 3 days a week, every week. Then, after the third day, clean the VME out of waterer. Administer vitamin-mineral-electrolytes carefully and at low levels.

• Molasses in the feed at a proportion of 1/4 - to 1/2 -percent of the ration may improve performance in cold weather or in a season of widely varying temperatures.

Potassium and sugar in molasses may cause diarrhea in birds.

Overall, a goal is to get adequate but not excessive feed consumption.

Also, do not allow feed or water quality to decrease during storage or handling. Feed that gets wet, old, moldy or contaminated must not be fed.

Wide variations in weather parameters such as temperature, atmospheric pressure, relative humidity, wind or chill factor can cause abnormal behavior and performance in game birds, turkeys, rabbits, chickens, and waterfowl, normally in that order.

Provide birds with protection from the weather changes or improve other care factors like nutrition, space per bird, pure water, fresh unpolluted air and a better quality light. If a problem arises, seek help.

Farmland Trust Seeks Nominations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Farmland Trust (AFT) announced that it will accept nominations for its ninth annual Agricultural Conservation Awards from now through August 1.

The awards honor those individuals and organizations who have made outstanding contributions toward the protection of the nation's agricultural resources. AFT, a national, non-profit organization dedicated to protecting farmland, established the awards in 1984 to encourage broad participation in agricultural resource conservation.

Awards are given for outstanding federal, state, or local contributions in public policy and program development, public education, model land protection projects, and corporate achievement.

Nominations should include a one-page summary of the candidate's accomplishments. Supporting documentation up to 10 pages may include letters of recommendation, detailed descriptions or examples of the candidate's accomplishments, or newspaper and magazine articles. Self-nominations are permissible. All nominations must include the names and addresses of the nominee and nominator.

Materials or questions should be sent to awards coordinator, AFT's National Office, 1920 N. St., N.W., Suite 400, Washington, D.C., 20036. Nominations must be received by August 1. Awards will be presented at special ceremonies this winter in Washington.

Introducing a new generation of Gehl skid loaders.

Gehl skid loaders have a long, well-earned reputation for ruggedness, reliability and unmatched serviceability. Our new "25 Series" generation of skid loaders enhances that proven performance with more muscle, more durability, additional convenience features and increased operator comfort.

The result: the best skid loader value available today.

Compare a Gehl skid loader to the competition. You'll quickly see that Gehl handles easier and performs better.

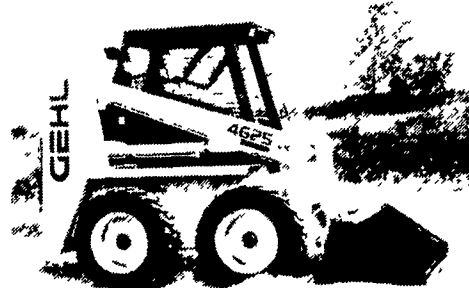

- Gehl's exclusive T-bar hand controls give you outstanding maneuverability and precise bucket and drive control. Your hands control the entire operation.
- A secondary operator restraint system provides protection and comfort.
- Self-leveling action keeps the load in the bucket (standard on SX, optional on other models).
- High capacity hydraulics provide extra power for operating hydraulic attachments. A wide variety of attachments are available to handle virtually any job

Gehl builds a full line of skid loaders to match your needs. Models range from 20 to 60 horsepower with SAE operating capacities from 750 to 2,050 pounds. And Gehl backs its loaders with strong parts and service support.

Once you've operated a versatile Gehl skid loader, you won't be satisfied with anything less. Ask your dealer for a test drive, today.

The new "25 Series" offers these advantages over the models they replace.

- More operating capacity.
- Stronger load arms.
- Increased dump height.
- Increased dump reach.
- Smoother control operation.
- Lower noise level.
- New systems monitoring.
- Enhanced operator comfort.

FOR TOUGH NO-TILL SOYBEAN PLANTING YOU NEED A NEW KINZE WITH THE NEW BRUSH BEAN METERS — NOW TAKING ORDERS!

New! Precision Metering For Soybeans, Milo

Imagine nearly perfect plateless metering for soybeans, milo/grain sorghum! Imagine the ability to plant varying seed sizes accurately — soybeans (from 2,200 to 4,000 seeds per pound), milo/grain sorghum (12,000-18,000 seeds per pound), — with the same meter and the appropriate seed disc. A precision meter with one moving part. One that costs little to maintain. One that eliminates the wasted coverage and all the extra adjustments of conventional mechanical metering systems. One that doesn't require all the pumps, adjustments and maintenance of air and vacuum systems. One that's actually gentler on the seed than anything you've used before.

Meet the new KINZE® Brush-Type Seed Meter. Designed specifically to handle a wide variety of crops.

How does it work? Simply! It consists of a die-cast aluminum housing and a system of brushes that fills and gently retains individual seeds in a precision-molded seed disc with specially designed seed pockets.

As the disc rotates vertically within the housing, seeds gravitate toward the periphery of the seed disc. Individual seeds are then picked up by the molded seed pocket and retained by the special brush system until they reach a point immediately above the seed tube where they are released and allowed to drop gently into the seed trench.

The result? More accuracy and control than you ever thought possible. Without all the adjustments. Without all the maintenance headaches.

WINCO PTO GENERATORS

Power falls at the worst possible time—restart your whole farm with the number one PTO generator the world over!

ENERGX Corporation, the world's largest PTO generator manufacturer, designs Winco PTO units from the ground up for farm standby power. Built to handle motor loads for the duration of the power outage, and rated for continuous duty operation.

Big motors in your feed room groan to a halt. Vent fans, milk coolers stop. There are no lights, no heating, and no power in the house. For how long? Nobody knows! But with a Winco PTO generator, your farm will be back in business in minutes.

Winco PTO generators are available in sizes from 8KW to 75KW continuous duty. The Maxi-Watt® field coil windings provide extra capacity to restart a big farm at the busiest time of the day.

Winco PTO units will run a combination motor load of up to 1 HP per KW.

The 900 Series Early Riser Row Units Are The Secret!

1. Case IH staggered doubled disk openers reduce power demands, effectively cut through trash and penetrate hard soils, eliminating the need for costly colter attachments common to so-called "no till" planters.

2. Exclusive front pull equalizing depth gauge wheels are connected through special linkage that maintains equal pressure on the gauge wheels at all times. Grooved gauge wheel tires work to trap the moist soil brought up by the openers so that soil is placed back into the bottom of the seed trench following seed placement.

3. Improved Furrow firming point forms a well-defined "V" furrow bottom offering optimum depth control, seed spacing and germination.

4. With the clean "V" furrow bottom and smooth, narrow seed trench, seeds are delivered to the same depth and held in place for reliable uniform emergence.

5. Twin inverted staggered covering disks mounted directly behind the openers, return moist soil to the seed trench and provide good seed/soil contact.

6. Chevron-tread press wheels seal the closed seed trench and firm the furrow, eliminating air pockets and promoting optimum germination.

- Stronger materials. In the bale case and plunger.
- Gear-driven knotter or twister.
- Increased load capabilities. To handle the extra capacity.

The new award winning design of our wide pickup, available on model 550 New Holland round baler, lets you handle wider windrows. So you pick up more crop instead of leaving it in the field. And the flared sides mean smoother bale ends for sharper, denser, better-looking bales. Stop in today for a look at the new model 550.

 ment in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry.
 The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

* 5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
 * 2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit
 Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a * 2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00
 We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets.
 NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200.00

OPERATOR FRIENDLY

The AGCO Allis 6600 Series row crop tractors are engineered to put you comfortably in control. In addition to a comfortable cab or a platform and ROPS, you get low maintenance, low operating costs and a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Trouble-free, air- and oil-cooled engine. The 6600 Series tractors are equipped with low-maintenance, 4-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engines. The 6670 provides 63 PTO hp and the 6680 73 PTO hp, both with 22% torque rise. The 6690 has a turbocharged 81 PTO hp engine that delivers a 28% torque rise, as well as the best fuel economy in its class.
- Many speed choices. The synchro-power transmission with a separate synchro-reverser offers 12 forward and 12 reverse speeds, planetary final drive and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch. An optional creeper transmission provides 16 forward and 16 reverse speeds; a dual speed option has 24 forward and 12 reverse and a power Hi-Lo transmission provides 30 forward and 30 reverse speeds. All tractor models are available as either 2WD or AWD.

- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and has a hydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch. The Category II/1 3-point hitch has a convenient rear remote control and is equipped with telescopic stabilizers. Optional telescopic lower links are also available.

- Quality performance and comfort. The 6600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear radial tires. They have hydrostatic power steering, a tilt-telescopic steering wheel, hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes and a mechanically-actuated differential lock. AWD models have four-wheel brakes for 40% better braking and an operator controlled front differential lock for tighter turns. All operated from the comfort of the enclosed cab.

To experience the user-friendliness of the 6600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon.
